Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, April 24.

The usual row is in progress. A determination exists to cut off debate on the adoption of the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization. Mr. CLARK, of Mississippi, objected to its reception. Mr. RICHARDSON, of Illinois, with great emphasis, sustained it. Mr. RANDALL, of Pennsylvania, announced his complete fealty to the South, and stated that he would vote for no man who was not a favorite of the South. Mr. RICHARDSON arose, and with vehement gesture, declined to follow this bell-wether, and asked whether he was to be directed or aided by converts of three years and two months standing. Great excitement ensued. Members called to order. Some hissed. Mr. RANDALL felt in all his pockets for a card. He finally found an old envelope, and matters for a moment looked squally. Mr. RICHARDSON, with coat sleeves rolled up, and hands on paunch, charged the little man, who smiled a pitying smile, and reiterated his belief that old rams were better leaders than such very young sheep, and proceeded in the manner peculiar to Western natures, with florid complexions, to express his decided antipathy to the manner in which certain gentlemen endeavored to bring in, at this stage of the Convention, their Presidential preferences. Mr. RUSSELL, of Virginia, attempted to continue the debate, but though he tried his prettiest the Chair would not recognise him, and he was decidedly snubbed. For several minutes the Chair discussed points of order with delegates all over the hall, and finally, seeing that water would soon be ten feet deep, appointed Messrs. RICHARDSON, of Illinois, and CLARK, of Mississippi, to conduct Mr. CUSHING to the Chair, and proceeded to deliver his parting address.

Said address was flowery in the extreme. He deprecated sectionalism about ten minutes in good style, He eulogized harmony five minutes, in an able manner. He described the origin, rise, progress and final career "of ye grate Mississippi Rivah," some six minutes, feelingly; took up the Democratic Party carefully, spoke on it tenderly, and finally, in his own peculiarly dignified and graceful manner, yielded his seat to his successor, while the refreshed and entertained delegates, reporters, and outsiders applauded to the echo.

Mr. CUSHING'S speech was, like all his others, carefully prepared, written, and mailed to the Boston Post.

Mayor WOOD'S argument before the Committee was a very able effort, and has won him a host of friends.

The leading tickets to-day were:

President, STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS, of Illinois; Vice-President, ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS, of Georgia.

President, JAMES L. ORR, of South Carolina; Vice-President, WILLIAM C. ALEXANDER, of New-Jersey.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, April 24—P. M.

After Gen. CUSHING had called the House to order, Mr. RICHARDSON explained that his remarks concerning RANDALL were only in fun, and that he was the last to insult a senior. RANDALL was not disposed to be pleased, and said he was born at the same time with RICHARDSON. This brought up RICHARDSON, who said he apologized simply because it was his duty; no fear of consequences impelled his action.

Mr. COCHRANE'S voice having failed him, FAIRFIELD supplied his place before the Credential Committee, and introduced strong Soft affidavits.

WOOD replied in a speech of great power. He said that if SMALLEY'S unfair course was to be a precedent, he would prophesy great dissatisfaction among the people. He took very high grounds. He dared the Committee to exclude him in the face of the consequences. He predicts that there would never be another National Democratic Convention if his delegation is excluded. His bold fearless manner, his line of argument, and his evident consciousness of power produced a great impression on the Committee, and he has made a host of friends in the Convention. The Committee will exclude him. Two reports will be presented, and the music will then begin. His friends will ask that WOOD may be allowed to address the Convention. WOOD has not been at the Hall, and will not go in unless he goes as a delegate.

The GUTHRIE stock rises, but DOUGLAS is ahead.

The contestants from Illinois and Massachusetts are before the Credential Committee to-night.

Strawberries, Green Peas, straw hats and claret punches are all the rage; I hope the claret will be punched in no pugilistic sense, but matters do look a little squally. HOWARD.

THE IMPRESSION AT WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 24.

The dispatches from Charleston have greatly elated the friends of Mr. DOUGLAS. The Secretary of War has received a dispatch saying that Mr. DOUGLAS would be nominated on the second or third ballot. The Democratic Head-quarters are surrounded by a great crowd, anxious to hear the last news from Charleston.

Messrs. FLORENCE and DIMMICK, of Pennsylvania, Administration Democrats, have expressed the opinion that Mr. GUTHRIE would poll a larger vote in that State than any other man. Even this will be telegraphed to Charleston to influence the action of the Convention.

There are large gatherings again to-night at the Republican and Democratic head-quarters awaiting the news. The interest increases to learn the latest intelligence. P.

From the Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, April 24.

The National Democratic Convention reassembled at 10 o'clock this morning.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported in favor of Hon. CALEB CUSHING for President, and one Vice-President and Secretary from each State in the Union. Those of New-York are Erastus Corning and Edward Cooper; Maryland, W. D. Bowie and B. F. Lowe; Pennsylvania, Thomas Cunningham and F. Van Zandt.

A dispatch from Washington was shown around the Hall from a member of the Cabinet, declaring that the reports of dissension in the Cabinet growing out of WALKER'S testimony are entirely destitute of foundation, and that the Cabinet were never more entirely harmonious.

The Committee on Permanent Organization also reported an additional rule, to wit: that in any State in which it has not been provided or directed by its State Convention how its vote may be given, the Convention will recognize the right of each delegate to cast his individual vote.

Mr. WRIGHT, of Pennsylvania, made a strong appeal for harmony. If harmony did not prevail here, the nominations to be made would not be worth the paper on which they were recorded, when brought before the people. He was in favor of the rule. Every delegate should be permitted to cast his vote in accordance with his convictions and those of his constituents. Pennsylvania had never rated as a unit except when their sentiment was unanimous. He closed by demanding the previous question, and the vote was then taken on that part of the report relating to presiding officers, and it was adopted unanimously

Mr. FLOURNOY then returned thanks, counselling moderation and harmony. We are all marching under one flag. The Democratic Party has but one flag—the flag of our country. He denounced sectionalism, and hoped no more allusions would be made to such divisions.

Hon. CALEB CUSHING was introduced to the Convention, and, after the cheering had subsided, he said:

Gentlemen of the Convention:

I respectfully tender to you my most earnest expression of profound gratitude for the honor which you have this day done me in appointing me to preside over your deliberations. It is, however, a responsible duty imposed, much more than a high honor conferred. In the discharging of that duty, in the direction of business and of debate, and on the preservation of order it shall be my constant endeavor faithfully and impartially to officiate as your Minister and not humbly to reflect your will. In a great deliberative assembly like this it is not the presiding officer in whom strength resides. It is not his strength, but yours—your intelligence—your sense of order—your instinct of self-respect. I rely, gentlemen, confidently upon you, not upon myself, for the prompt and parliamentary dispatch of the business of the Convention. Gentlemen, you have have come here from the green hills of the Eastern States, from the rich States of the imperial centre, from the sun-lighted plains of the South, from the fertile States of the mighty basin of the Mississippi, from the golden shores of the distant Oregon and California. You have come hither in the exercise of the highest functions of a free people, to participate in the election of the future rulers of the Republic. You do this as the representatives of the Democratic Party—of that great party of the Union whose proud mission it is to maintain the public liberties, to reconcile popular freedom with constitutional order, to maintain the sacred reserved rights of the Sovereign States. [Loud and long-continued applause.] To stand, in a word, the perpetual sentinels of the outposts of the Constitution. [Cries of "That's the talk," and enthusiastic cheers.] Ours, gentlemen, is the motto inscribed on that scroll in the hands of the monumental statue of the great statesman of South Carolina: "Truth, Justice, and the Constitution. [Loud cheers.] Opposed to us are those who labor to overthrow the Constitution, under the false and insidious pretence of supporting those who are desiring to produce in this country a permanent sectional conspiracy—a traitorous sectional conspiracy of one half of the States against the other half; those who, impelled by the stupid and half insane spirit of faction and fanaticism, would hurry our land on to revolution and to civil war. These, the banded enemies of the Constitution, it is the part, the high and noble part of the Democracy of the Union to withstand, to strike down and to conquer. Aye, that is our part, and we will do it in the name of our dear country—with the help of God we will do it. [Loud and enthusiastic cheers.] Aye, we will do it; for, gentlemen, we will not distrust ourselves—we will not despair of the genius of our country—we will continue to repose with undoubting faith in the good Providence of Almighty God. [Loud applaus.]

About half an hour was spent in seating the Vice-Presidents, and arranging for the Secretaries, and also in preparing for a formal and energetic enforcement of the parliamentary rules in the future proceedings of the Convention.

A warm debate sprung up on the rule reported by the Committee on Organization, in which Messrs. RICHARDSON, of Illinois, CESENA, of Pennsylvania, BARRY, of Mississippi, JOSIAH RANDALL, of Pennsylvania, and many others took part.

Several of the Southern delegates opposed the rule.

Mr. RANDALL also opposed it, declaring that certain refractory members in the Pennsylvania Delegation proposed to violate and misrepresent their constituents in voting for DOUGLAS, whose nomination, in his opinion, would lead to certain defeat. He then went into a review of the action of preceding Democratic Conventions on this subject.

Mr. RICHARDSON rose to reply, and asked Mr. RANDALL who made him an expounder of Democratic principles and precedent? How long had the gentleman been in the Democratic ranks?

This caused cries of "Order," and great excitement.

Several persons rose to points of order.

The Chairman decided that Mr. RICHARDSON was entitled to the floor, and then changed his decision denying his right.

Mr. RICHARDSON, standing on a chair in the centre of the hall with his sleeves rolled up and determined to be heard, was finally allowed to go on, and again attacked Mr. RANDALL as having recently come into the fold, alluding to his political antecedents as entitling his opinions on Democracy to but little consideration. He did not desire, after a life's service in the cause, to be reproved by the recruits of yesterday. [Applause.]

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 12 o'clock the Convention was called to order again.

Mr. JACKSON, of Georgia, rose to a question of privilege, relative to his State delegation.

A motion to adjourn till 4 o'clock was lost.

The question was then called on the motion to strike out the rule relative to the right of members of each delegation to vote as they think proper, unless instructed by the Convention that appointed them.

During the calling of the roll the greatest excitement existed.

The Tennessee, Virginia and Indiana delegations protested against the announcement of the Chairman giving the votes of the several States as a unit against the adoption of the rule.

Ten of the twelve delegates were opposed to the manner in which the vote of their respective States had been recorded.

The vote was finally announced, as follows: Ayes 101; Nays 198—so the rule was adopted, and the majority of a delegation cannot compel the minority to vote with them as a unit unless instructed by the Convention that appointed them.

The vote is regarded as a test vote.

The vote to lay it on the table was as follows:

Massachusetts	6	Alabama	9
Pennsylvania	14	Louisiana	6
Delaware	1½	Mississippi	7
Maryland	3½	Texas	4
Virginia	15	Arkansas	½
North Carolina	7	Missouri	2
South Carolina	8	California	2½
Georgia	10	Oregon	3
Florida	3	Total Ayes	101

Nays, (all the balance of the States,) 198

The resolution offered yesterday for the appointment of a Committee on Resolutions and a Platform was then called up, and an amendment offered that no balloting be allowed for President or Vice-President until the Committee have made their report.

A vote was first taken on the resolution for the appointment of the Committee, which was adopted.

The Committee was then appointed.

The motion was renewed on the proposition that no balloting shall take place until the report of the Committee on Platform be adopted.

A motion to lay the resolution on the table was rejected—Ayes, 32½; Noes, 270½.

The vote was then taken on the resolution, and it was adopted by acclamation.

A long debate ensued on a proposition to limit members from speaking more than once on the same subject, and it was finally laid over till to-morrow.

The President was directed to invite ministers of the Gospel to open the Convention with prayer.

Judge MEEK presented the Alabama Platform, and it was referred to the Committee on Platform.

The Committee on Credentials announced that they would not be able to report before to-morrow morning.

The Convention adjourned till 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

PRELIMINARIES OF THE CONVENTION.

THE PRESSURE FOR DOUGLAS—PREFERENCES OF THE SOUTHERN STATES—DOUGLAS' STRENGTH IN SOUTH CAROLINA, ALABAMA, TENNESSEE, ETC.—THE NORTHERN DELEGATIONS—GENERAL NOTES.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Saturday, April 21, 1860.

The rival New-York delegations are here, and that headed by WOOD will be supported by Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana and half of the Tennessee delegation. This was decided in a caucus of these States last night; where a resolution was also adopted to quit the Convention should a preliminary resolution, pledging all who are in the Convention to support the nominee, be carried.

The Douglas pressure is much greater here to-day than was that for BUCHANAN at Cincinnati; but many of the Hunter men feel confident that their choice must win.

South Carolina is first for ORR; but in case ORR should be taken up for Vice-President with DOUGLAS he will make a strong effort to bring his State over to DOUGLAS as early as possible. The delegation being made up and instructed for ORR, it is thought he will have great weight with it.

Tennessee goes for ANDREW JOHNSON, as instructed; but an active minority of her votes are for DOUGLAS—the balance being for HUNTER after JOHNSON.

Five of the strongest and most popular men on the Alabama delegation are for DOUGLAS, and will not leave the Convention with the Yancey men, who mean to withdraw should DOUGLAS be nominated.

Two—some say three—of the Mississippi delegates are in the same position, and will not withdraw. The balance go as JEFFERSON DAVIS orders.

Kentucky is immovable for GUTHRIE, and will not change to BRECKINRIDGE if he be brought forward by Pennsylvania or any Northern State. Should the Vice-President be brought forward by Pennsylvania and New-Jersey, Kentucky will vote either for HUNTER or DOUGLAS early in the contest.

Arkansas has three ardent DOUGLAS men, headed by THOMPSON FLOURNOY, who will probably be chosen temporary Chairman of the Convention. Should ORR, of South Carolina, appear in the Convention as a delegate, he will, beyond doubt, be elected permanent presiding officer.

North Carolina has four avowed Douglas delegates, the balance being for HUNTER, with Douglas proclivities.

Virginia is honestly and actively for HUNTER, with chances of a split, should there be a second choice—one-half being likely to go for GUTHRIE, the other for DOUGLAS.

Should New-Jersey and Pennsylvania, in view of the protest of the Kentucky delegation, consent to abandon BRECKINRIDGE, New-Jersey will return to DOUGLAS and Pennsylvania go over to GUTHRIE.

In the New-York delegation there is a combination of certainly not less than forty-four men who will vote and act together—probably 48 and possibly 52. DICKINSON has 7 active friends in the regular delegation; but members of the Wood delegation offer to withdraw in case the regular delegation will agree to cast its first three votes for the Sage of Binghamton.

This places DICKINSON in the awkward predicament of having an outside delegation threatening trouble to the delegation he acts with, in case the latter does not see fit to support him. The impression is that the central combination in the New-York delegation is first with DOUGLAS—having a remote possible reserve in favor, first, of GUTHRIE; and secondly, of a State candidate—not DICKINSON. It is conceded on all hands that this delegation will be admitted. BELMONT and BUTTERWORTH will probably be taken in to fill vacancies; BARLOW possibly.

Many Southern statesmen are here, and all appear fairly disposed towards the future nominee, whoever he may be. Outside Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Louisiana, there is no sympathy with the Secessionists. The friends of GUTHRIE are very active; those of HUNTER hopeful; the DOUGLAS men in high spirits, and the friends of BRECKINRIDGE making up in industry and push what they lack in numbers.

The weather is fearfully hot, blistering faces and broiling feet. The Mills House is crammed with four or five in each room; but several of the less known hotels are nearly empty. Everything promises an exciting time next week.

Louisiana is held by Senator SLIDELL, who has engaged a ranche here, whereat the Louisiana delegation and Messrs. BARLOW, BUTTERWORTH, and Lieut. MOWRY, of Arizona, are staying. BELMONT refused to stay, on the ground that he was not in political sympathy with the occupants.

Orders are said to have come from Washington to the effect that the administration wishes an effort to be made for General JOE LANE; but it is more than doubtful whether any heed will be paid to him.

JOHN COCHRANE appears to be the leader of the northern wing of the Hunter men. GEORGE N. SANDERS is also here, working actively for DOUGLAS, in spite of his threatened removal. The Northwestern men have a good deal of back-bone, and the fire-eaters will meet their matches in them. There is an everlasting buzz of contradictory rumors here, but this would seem the sum total of the hotch-potch. Things will have settled and calmed down a good deal by to-morrow night. Every table in every hotel is littered with the documents of the Wood Delegation; but such artillery amounts to nothing—at least so think those likely to be best informed. The musquitoes and little black children are very lively here. The Mills House appears to give ordinarily good fare at table. DON COSSACK.

THE WEST INDIES.

News from the Windward Islands, Trinidad and Demerara.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados, Monday, March 27.

During the fortnight that has elapsed since the date of my last communication, nothing very new has occurred in Barbados worthy of record. The small-pox, which has been epidemic in the Island for four months, continues to spread. Some thirty or forty men of the Third West India Regiment (black) are down with the disease. Not many deaths are recorded. The small-pox, on this occasion, appears to have taken a milder form than it is wont to do, and in most cases yields to treatment. But it is a mistake to suppose that vaccination is a preventive. It mitigates the severity of the attack, but I know of persons in this Island who have had the disease itself more than once, and of others who have been seized with it only a few weeks after vaccination. The weather in Barbados is dry and hot; rain is much needed.

Within the fortnight the American whalers Sun and Louisa Sears have arrived; also the brigantine Lewis Bruce, from Dominica, in want of seamen; the schooner Lucy R. Waring, from Baltimore, and the ship Persian, in ballast, from Aden. The American bark Excelsior, out forty-two days, from New-York, is believed to be lost. She may have put back or into Bermuda in distress.

From Grenada we learn that the Government has ordered the American whalers, of whom I have already spoken, to quit the coast. The Government, doubtless, has right upon its side, though the proceeding is an exceedingly selfish one. The order appears to have been obeyed by the Americans. The Grenada Chronicle, of March 23, says: "Fine weather prevails over the country—mills, boiling-houses and distilleries are everywhere in active operation, and yielding satisfactorily—plants for future crops are in luxuriant verdure—and planters only want more labor to turn ether advantages to full account." Grenada has been one of the "ruined" islands; but she is reviving fast, and will soon be as prosperous as nearly all her sister colonies are. Money and enterprise are the essentials wanted.

From Trinidad we learn of the arrival at Port-of-Spain of the American bark Ceres, with 228 Africans, rescued from a slaver and taken to St. Helena. They are described to be fine healthy men and women. In bringing these captured Africans to their colonies, the British Government is not acting up to its professions. The men were stolen from their homes, and though it is something to save them from Cuban Slavery, they cannot be said to be "liberated" if they are sent against their will to a British island. I take it for granted that on this point their wishes are not consulted. If Government desires to give proof of a practical philanthropy it should imitate the American example, and send the Africans they capture from slavers back to their native country, as the Echo's cargo were sent back in the frigate Niagara. Trinidad this year has shipped to date about 3,000 hhds. of sugar and 1,057,230 pounds of Cocoa. Since last advices the American schooner Atlantic had arrived; the Sally Smith had left for North Carolina, and the bark N. H. Gaston, on the 21st inst. for New-York.

The Trinidad papers report late intelligence from Venezuela, which represents the success of the Constitutionalists in recent engagements as very decisive.

Advices from Georgetown, Demerara, are to the 23d of March. An arrival of 377 Chinese emigrants, of whom 56 were women, is reported. There was not a death during the passage. During the last fortnight there were exported from Georgetown 1,092 hhds., 86 tierces and 382 bols. of sugar. No American vessels were in port.

At Nashville, Tenn., a few days since, Mr. Coyle, a levee contractor, was murdered by a laborer named Thomas Noonan, during a quarrel. The murderer has not been arrested. Mr. Coyle was junior member of the firm of Wesson & Coyle.

The Prize Fight—The Arrest and Discharge of Heenan—A New Field Marshal—Natural History—The Bull—Dramatic and Theatrical.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Saturday, April 7, 1860.

There has been what we used to call in the Crimea a "shave" concerning THE FIGHT. The "Benicia Boy" has been chewed up in 20 minutes' not by THOMAS SAYERS, Esq., (every one is an Esquire now-a-days, and SAYERS ought to be a K. C. B. at least)—not, I repeat, by T. SAYERS, but by the "bunch of fives" of an inventive reporter. Only fancy if the fight had really taken place, and I not there to see! The Daily Telegraph has been stirring up its inky puddle to a storm, in order to provoke Beadle-dom to arrest the fight, and bind over the combatants to keep the peace. One hundred and fifty sporting Yankees are said to have come to London by a single train from Liverpool to see the "mill," not on the "Floss," nor yet I hope on the "cross," but, as Punch says, on the tapis. Imagination cannot picture the animated disorder of that train—at least mine is hardly equal to the task. It is really too bad that a portion of the training of the combatants on this occasion should consist in eloping from base provincial constables. The whole nation on this side anticipates the fight. It ought to occasion a revolution, if anything puts a stop to the chivalrous encounter of a HEENAN and a SAYERS. But it cannot, and must not be done. The Queen does not wish the fight to be prevented; nor yet Lord PALMERSTON, that experienced veteran bottle-holder, I dare say that the Prince Consort does not approve of it; but who cares for him? All the distinguished Tories will be there, and the Bench of Bishops is divided on the occasion, while Chief-Justice COCKBURN is going in a black scratch wig and goggles, in company with Baron NICHOLSON, EDWIN JAMES Q. C., the Marquis of CLANRICARDE, Mr. SPURGEON and other distinguished personages of the day. Que voulez vous? In my opinion Mr. DALLAS ought to be there to see fair play. The Emperor NAPOLEON is coming over in disguise, and it is said that the fair EUGENIE herself, whose costume of Diana has lately excited so much criticism and admiration, was only over-ruled by her august spouse after a very protracted entreaty that she might be present.

Congratulate us! We have another Field Marshal, Lord SEATON, formerly Sir JOHN COLBORNE, the hero of the Peninsula, is just appointed. He is only a little over 80 years of age. What a farce this is. No that the fine old fellow does not deserve it. He would even now be more effective in the field than H. R. H P. A. The Army of England is commanded by the Duke of Cambridge, and what is the truth about him? Shall I tell you the brief and expressive description of an officer who was in the Crimea? At the Alma he nearly destroyed the Brigade he headed, and if i had not been for Sir COLIN CAMPBELL, now Lord CLYDE, he would have done it. At the battle of Inkerman he did nothing save weep and eat sandwiches and bellow "Oh! my poor Guards, oh! my poor Guards." "He was then put into a straight-jacket, Sir," quoth my informant, "and sent home to be Commander-in-Chief of the British Army." The straight jacket, which I imagine must have been a figure of speech, as I do not think he is ever violent except to his officers on parade, has had, morally speaking, one effect upon him, since his notions of liberality have been very confined ever since. He has £12,000 a year extra from Government for purposes of charity and entertainment, and yet he never invites an officer even to lunch. Now, even the Prince Consort sometimes affords a pint of bad sherry to an artist or a dentist sent for to Windsor Castle. Moreover, when an officer of thirty-eight years' standing and high character is arbitrarily deprived of his pension by a positively dishonorable act of the Government, and commits suicide through poverty and pride, the Duke of CAMBRIDGE, with his £42,000 a year and perquisites, cannot find a £10 note to subscribe for the maintenance of that officer's only and aged sister to keep her from starvation. I allude to the melancholy case of the late Captain DODGIN, which was fully stated to this penurious stock-fish, who refused any aid or assistance on account of the numerous demands made upon him. Demands, indeed! yes; but when was he ever known to give a farthing to any one? Really, I hope that the Prince of WALES may turn out a respectable, moral individual, as unlike GEORGE IV. as possible; but I am sure the nation will love him better for not being an utter screw, and rather excuse a manly vice than the mean conduct which I would fain commemorate in your columns.

With regard to general news, the Pope has thundered forth his excommunication from the Vatican. He of the Sardines is cursed, and I suppose the Emperor of the French is included as a participator, although not expressly named. The Papal fulmination is nailed, as vermin are affixed to a barn door, to the doors of the Lateran Church, of the Prince of Apostles, the Apostolic Chancery and General Curia, and at the corner of the Field of Flora of the city, as is usual, and signed Pius P. P. IX., dated at St. Peters, Rome, under the ring of the Fishers, the 26th day of March, 1860, and the names of two "Cursers" appended. "ALOYS SERAFINO, Apostolical Curser," "PHILIPPUS OSSANI, Magister Curser." Only fancy Mr. REUTER having to transmit by telegraph such cursing and swearing in this Nineteenth Century. I expect, like other maledictions, these will come home to roost in Pio NONO'S own rookery. If this should not be the means of recalling the last French soldier from Rome, curses are vain indeed.

Is not this spicy? Mlle. VICTORIE BALFE is married to the English Minister at St. Petersburg. You will remember him at Washington as Mr. CRAMPTON, now Sir JOHN CRAMPTON, Bart., K. C. B., having been decorated for his crimping performances, when we wanted a German Legion raised in America. This fortunate personage is 53 years of age. The marriage accounts for the forfeiture of the young lady's engagement to sing this Winter in London, to the great dismay and loss of Mr. BEALE. Mr. LAWRENT, father of EMILE LAWRENT, of Argyle Room notoriety, is about to open the Lyceum Theatre, so well-known under the popular management of Mme. VESTRIS, and more lately Mme. CELESTE, for a series of French comic operas and vaudevilles. Shall we have an English theatre left shortly? It is to be hoped not, considering that it is turned into a sort of cook-shop for TOM TAYLOR, and degraded to the lowest standard of morality in its unacknowledged adaptations of talent in its actors and authors, (?) and of ability and taste in its managers. Let CHARLES KEAN, let WEBSTER, ROBSON, PHELPS, HARRIS, CHATTERTON, &c., fly to Boulogne, sur mer or au bois, it matters little—the thing cannot be much worse. The British stage, as such, is a mixture of galvanized burlesque and French translations. Let us import the real article, even if it cost us 30 per cent. ad valorem duty. A dirty little two-penny, half-penny insurrection in Spain—would it had been on the largest scale—is hardly worth recording. The Spaniards and the Moors have squared it for the present, by the latter giving up a triangular piece of territory and a portion of the treasures of Morocco.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. GEORGE FOGAN, Secretary of Legation at Parana, is to be British Chargé d'Affaires to Guatemala, Nicaragua, and the other Central American States. CHARLES ALISON, Secretary of Legation at Constantinople, is appointed Minister to Persia.

FRED DOUGLASS, while in Newcastle, made application, through the American Minister in London, for a passport to enable him to visit Paris as an American citizen. The reply made by the Minister was, in effect, that the Constitution of the United States did not recognise persons of color as citizens; the passport was therefore refused. Through the kindness, however, of the French Consul at Newcastle, the required permission has been obtained.

Disturbances had occurred on board the Edgar, 90, screw, Capt. KATON, a ship of Rear-Admiral A. E. ERSKINE, second in command of the Channel Fleet. It is stated that the marines first displayed signs of insubordination relative to leave on the 9th inst., which was renewed on the next day, on which day a portion of the ship's company joined, when there ensued the usual routine practiced of late on such occasions. Five of the ringleaders, comprising two marines, one marine artillery and two seamen, were sent on board the Victory, where it is supposed they will be tried for their mutinous conduct. Various rumors are in circulation as to the cause of the disturbance and extent. The Sprightly steamer was ordered to bank her fires, and the marines on board Her Britannic Majesty's steamer Victory were to hold themselves in readiness at the latest advices, to proceed in her on board the Edgar, should their services be required.

It is announced that her Majesty will give a juvenile ball at Buckingham Palace on Friday, May 4, and a State ball on Wednesday, the 9th. Another concert and a State ball will be given in June.

Matters in Paris—Treason in the Austrian Army—Death of Lady Elgin—The Emperor and the Pope.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Thursday, April 5, 1860.

At Villafranca, it is said that FRANCIS JOSEPH was much astonished at the knowledge shown by the Emperor NAPOLEON of the fortifications of Verona and Venice. He knew their minutest details, and pointed out their weak points to the Emperor of Austria. He knew also, and told FRANCIS JOSEPH, that he had but five days' provisions in Verona. The explanation of this fact is now given to the public. A man, by the name of DOAZ, a Captain in the Austrian Army, who has just been shot at Venice for high treason, in furnishing the above information to the French Etat-Major, revealed the whole secret, and implicated eight other persons, all of whom are now under arrest. The Austrian Army, it seems, was not happy in the fidelity of its own ranks, since new facts are every day coming to light which show that corruption pervaded every department of its organization.

The promenaders on the Champs Elysées for many years past have been accustomed to see, every fine day, a large, gray haired old lady, paralyzed, and drawn by a solemn, speechless domestic, in a hand-cart, up and down the fashionable side of the promenade. This old lady, whom few persons knew by name, was the Countess of ELGIN, mother of Lord ELGIN, English Minister to China. For six years she has been held in France by her paralytic state, her eldest daughter, Lady AUGUSTA BRUCE, and a few faithful domestics being her only companions. Two days ago Lady ELGIN died, and in consequence of this event, the departure of Lord ELGIN for China will be again delayed.

The arrest of M. LOUIS VEUILLOT and the seizure of his papers have produced a good deal of sensation at Paris. A pocket-book carelessly left open by M. VEUILLOT first gave the French authorities a hint that his movements ought to be watched. Three or four secret police agents were immediately sent to Rome to attach themselves to his steps, and to take note of every movement. This was done, and they followed him on his return to France. On the boat between Civita Vecchia and Marseilles, M. VEUILLOT was indiscreet enough to open his secrets to one of these agents, whom he did not suspect, and thus the police of Paris were telegraphed to arrest M. VEUILLOT the moment he arrived, which was done. He had but just entered his house when his papers were demanded. These were letters and documents from the Pope and the Cabinet of Rome, directed to the Cardinals and Bishops of France, and related to the excommunication and the question of the annexation of the Romagna, etc. The Pope's Nuncio at Paris immediately demanded that these papers be returned to M. VEUILLOT—a demand that was complied with, but not till after they had been copied at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. M. VEUILLOT was at once set at liberty, and steps were taken to nullify the effect of the documents which he had brought into France. MALAKOFF.

FRENCH ITEMS.

It was believed that the French Government had taken into consideration the proposition for a treaty of navigation with England.

It was reported that Lord COWLEY addressed a remonstrance to the French Government on the accusations brought against England by the Patrie and Pays, and hence the apology, which is said to have been penned by the Emperor himself.

The official decree in the Moniteur notifies that the Superior Council of Commerce, Agriculture and Industry, will proceed to an inquiry for the purpose of investigating the average prices of the articles admitted into France by the treaty of commerce with England, in order to fix an ad valorem duty upon them.

ITALY.

A Poke at the Sierri—Popular Uneasiness—Preparations for a General Insurrection—A Proclamation of Garibaldi.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ROME, Saturday, March 31, 1860.

No popular disturbance has taken place since the one of which I recently wrote you. The morning after the occurrence, a great heap of dead rats and mice was found before the barracks of the Papal gendarmerie—as though to hint at the business most proper for the valiant slaughterers within. In addition to the present bestowed in money upon the actors in the charge through the Corso, the Pope distributed medals among them for their "bravery." These they proudly wore for a day or two, but I think it was thought politic to take them off again; for, although I have looked to find them, I have not recently seen any. The "demonstrations" which were advertised, did not come off. On Sunday, especially, something of the kind was expected. The Pope held solemn service at the Church of Maria sopra Minerva, and was escorted thither by a thousand soldiers. Besides these troops, many of the French Chasseurs a pied were under arms, and the new National Guard of the City, composed of shop keepers, school-boys and other worthies, expected to run or desert at the first opportunity, and consisting, in all, of about five hundred men, furnished several companies, to be stationed at different points in the Bergo Naeva, (which leads to St. Peter's,) with drawn swords and loaded rifles. Another military feature of the day was the appearance of Papal soldiers of the line. For some time these troops have been kept in the provinces, on account of the jealousy between them and the French. But it seems they are being gradually brought back, probably in order to be ready, should the French leave, for the Pope's desperate attempt to hold Rome alone.

In spite of all these careful preparations, the promised row did not come off. In vain the sullen gens d'armes promenaded the streets; in vain the chasseurs trotted to and fro in their peculiarly irregular manner; in vain the school-boys and shop-keepers sweltered in their unaccustomed uniforms, or tripped over their own swords: the Noble Guard, and the National Guard, and the grim Swiss Regiment, and the idiotic Italian Regiment, were all in vain. This simultaneous inaction, and sudden silence on the part of a whole people, is quite as impressive as its opposite, and still more intangible. Nobody can be blamed for staying at home and minding his own business; but these aggravating Romans stay at home so unexpectedly, and mind their own business so significantly:—verily, it is enough to drive a paternal Government crazy!

Lest you may think this too fanciful, I mention that the countermanding order, which produced so perfect a quiet on that day and since, was a printed circular, widely, though secretly distributed, of whose existence and contents the Government is doubtless well aware, but whose circulation it was impossible to hinder. So that the authorities know too well that they owe their present temporary security to the same power which will one day be exerted with equal success for their destruction.

The paternal Government is really crazy. Day before yesterday, the Bull announcing the fact was posted at the door of St. Peter's, St. John Lateran's, and other places, as by law appointed. It was the excommunication of VICTOR EMANUEL, his aiders and abettors, spectators and non-preventers; which includes, it seems to me, the Holy Catholic Church, "et al.," Such a mild, tedious, harmless excommunication, was never before seen. It is three long columns of tough Church Latin, phrased like a law document, and containing an argument from St. Paul, as to the "powers that be"—(which applies, unfortunately, just now, to the Sardinian Sovereignty in Emilia)—a general anathema, in which no names are mentioned, and NAPOLEON appears to be meant, as much as VICTOR: then a saving clause, in case of repentance and restitution, and a final burst of tenderness and tears. It is noticeable that a way is left open for satisfaction to the Holy Father by equivalent for the territory wrested from him. All things considered, it is not so very dreadful an affair, even though it have full force. There is no such terrible phraseology in it as we read of. "Majorem Excommunicationem," "Excommunicamus et Anathematizamus;" these constitute the whole curse, and their force is quite impaired by the qualifying clauses which follow.

Slight as is the intended effect of the Bull, the real impression it has produced is still less. No one in Rome cares in the least for it. Curiosity did draw crowds to read it; but the public are apparently so indifferent to it, that even the gendarmes stationed to prevent its being torn down, seem unnecessary. In Piedmont, it is said, it has produced equally insignificant results. It is almost a pity that a blow, so weak in itself, should be made still more ridiculous by utterly missing its object.

The most important and surprising news I have saved till the last. Gen. LAMORICIERE has been called, with the consent of NAPOLEON, to command the Papal troops. He was an old Orleanist, you will remember, and as such was banished at the time of the Coup d'Etat, but has since returned to France. As to his capabilities, he is said to have distinguished himself in Algiers rather as a brave soldier than a skillful commander, in CAVAIGNAC'S time; but at any rate, he is much too good for the soldiers he is called to lead. Not long ago an Austrian officer, HOFFMAN, I think, was appointed to the same post; but on reviewing the Roman army, positively refused to accept the command, saying that if he should drill them ten years, he could not make brave men of them. LAMORICIERE is said to be already at Ancona; perhaps he too will shrink from the responsibilities and disabilities of the proposed position.

The meaning of the appointment is the subject of much discussion here, and, I suppose, will be elsewhere, as soon as it is known. The general expectation is, that the French will leave Rome, which will then be occupied by troops from Naples; that the Pope and Naples will immediately declare war upon Sardinia, and march into the Emilia, with a view to the recovery of the lost provinces, while France and Austria hold one another in check, and see the fight out. Wild as this programme appears, I have good authority for stating it as a possibility. The other plan—namely, the flight of the Pope and his pathetic appeal to Christendom—may be postponed, and will come with as good a grace after the failure of the first.

A proclamation from GARIBALDI is privately going the rounds, exhorting the people of Southern Italy to be ready, and promising speedy supplies of arms and ammunition. The patriots of Rome are organizing and secretly drilling, in companies; and have already accumulated a store of arms in the city. If the Southern Powers give the least pretext for hostilities, though they only so much as stick up a bayonet as an electric conductor, the storm will burst upon them.

It is positively stated that the French will only retire to Civita Vecchia, and remain passive spectators of whatever may take place in Rome, until they are required to prevent bloodshed. On the other hand, the Revolutionary Party are unanimous in the declaration that they will spare all unnecessary violence in the execution of their plans. It will be, however, a difficult matter to prevent the execution of vengeance upon some of

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

Effect of a Foreign Assignment.

F. W. Moore et al. vs. James C. Willett, Ex-Sheriff.—This action is now on trial in the Supreme Court Circuit, before Justice Emott, and is brought by the assignee of one Gilbert L. Moore, of North Carolina, to recover from the defendant the value of a vessel he levied upon under process in favor of attaching and execution creditors of Moore in this State.

The assignment was executed in North Carolina before the attachment and levy here, and the plaintiffs claim ownership under this assignment.

The defendant claims that the assignment was invalid by the laws both of this State and of North Carolina, inasmuch as it contains provisions calculated to hinder and delay creditors of the insolvent Moore; also, that, even if good by the laws of North Carolina, the attachment having taken effect here prior to any delivery of the vessel to the assignee, she being out of the jurisdiction of North Carolina at the time of the assignment, our courts would give effect to the attachment here in preference to a claim by assignees even under a prior assignment, which would be held fraudulent in its terms by the courts of this State.

The Court intimated that it would leave to the Jury to say what was the law of the State of North Carolina upon this point. The case is still on.

Bidwell, Silliman and Rice, for plaintiff; Gerard, Wanderpool and Gerard, Jr., for defendants.

SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS.

Utrighe Wolfe vs. Emile Goulard.—This case, which we noticed in yesterday's TIMES, is still on before Justice LEONARD, at Special Term. Yesterday, the witnesses for the plaintiff not being ready, the witnesses for the defendant were being examined.

Decisions.

SUPREME COURT, CHAMBERS—BONNEY, J.

Magrove vs. Murray.—Order to show cause vacated, and motion to set aside attachment dismissed, with $10 costs to plaintiff.

Brophy vs. Hughes.—Let the answer to the original complaint stand as the answer to the amended complaint, with leave to the defendant to amend such answer in five days after service of this order. Cause to be placed on the calendar, and tried in regular order. Judgment and execution to stand until the trial, but all proceedings on said judgment and execution stayed. $10 costs of this motion allowed to the party who shall succeed in the action.

Darby et al. vs. Boland.—Motion to change place of trial denied, on plaintiff stipulating as offered, and directed by the Court. No costs.

Court Calendar.—THIS DAY.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.—The Calendar will not be called again this term.

The enlargement of the circulation of the TIMES is at the present moment so rapid as to render it imperative that advertisements intended for the daily issue should be sent in at the earliest possible moment. Announcements which fail to reach the office before nine o'clock P. M., lose all the advantages of classification under the heads to which readers are accustomed to refer. It is, therefore, quite as important to the advertisers as to ourselves, to have that hour the latest for the reception of their notices.

The Democratic National Convention was permanently organized yesterday, Mr. Caleb Cushing, of Massachusetts, being the Permanent Chairman, aided by an army of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries. The Committee upon Organization reported as an additional rule, that individual members of uninstructed delegations may vote independently. A sharp contest ensued over this innovation, which was designed to set at liberty certain Douglas votes from Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and elsewhere, otherwise overwhelmed by an unfriendly majority. Mr. Josiah Randall, a fragment from Old-Line Whiggery, opposed the new rule vehemently, exposing himself to a severe rebuke from Mr. Richardson, of Illinois, for laying down laws to a party of which he is so recent a member. The personal altercation caused for a moment great excitement. A vote having been taken upon the motion to table the rule, the motion failed, ayes 101, noes 198. The rule was then adopted. An amendment to the resolution appointing a Committee upon the platform, declaring that no ballot shall be had until the Committee shall have reported, was offered, and after the Committee (whose names the telegraph fails to send us,) had been appointed, it was moved that the amendment be tabled. The motion was negatived, ayes 32½, noes 270½, and the amendment was unanimously accepted. A proposition to limit the time to be consumed by each member in speaking upon any question, occasioned some debate, but was finally postponed. Judge Meek, of Alabama, submitted the platform adopted by the Convention of his State. It was referred to the Committee upon the Platform. The Committee upon Credentials announced that it would report this morning, and the Convention accordingly adjourned to 10 A. M. to-day.

The Senate was not in session yesterday. The House received a message from the President, in which the Executive declares that since the admission of Minnesota it has done nothing that can be construed into an acknowledgment of an organized Government in the Territory severed from the State. In Committee of the Whole, Mr. Bingham, of Ohio, spoke on the subject of Slavery, its effect upon the composition of parties, and its enthronement at the White House. He was replied to by Mr. Noell, of Missouri, after whom the Pennsylvania members obtained the floor, and the furnaces of that Commonwealth were presently in full blast. Mr. McKnight argued the general propriety of protection, and from the tariff passed by a facile transition to Slavery, repudiating the Calhoun dogma, that the Constitution carried Slavery into the Territories. Mr. Joy Morris followed with a prolongation of the tariff discussion. He pronounced the pending Tariff bill to be as near perfection as present opinion would admit of. The Committee arose, and the House adjourned.

The announcement of the arrival of the City of Baltimore, with Queenstown advices to the 12th inst., appeared in a portion of our morning issue of yesterday. Her mails afford us highly interesting correspondence, and details of news additional to that received by the Australasian and Hammonia.

By the Tasmanian, which arrived at Southampton on the 12th, we have intelligence from St. Thomas to March 29. Several houses had been demolished by a terrible tornado, which recently passed over Amotto Bay. On the 23d, the shock of an earthquake was experienced at Jamaica. Business on the island was dull. Coffee sold at 42c.@44c.; sugar, dark, 10c.@18c. Reports from Barbados regarding the state of the crops was highly encouraging. A vessel had just arrived from China with 90 emigrants, and another was daily expected. Sugar-making was progressing rapidly. Some interesting items of South American news are furnished by the same arrival. Chili was quiet. A great discovery of gold was reported to have been made in Bolivia, on the Alotteo. The Indians on the lower frontier of Arauco were peaceable, but those on the upper frontier continued hostile. Castillo was expected at Abiel to commence hostilities against Bolivia.

The interest in the trial of Rev. Jacob S. Hardin, now in progress at Belvidere, N. J., continues undiminished. Daniel M. Wyckoff, a merchant at Port Colden, on Monday afternoon testified that he sold to Jacob M. Woodruff a quantity of arsenic before Mrs. Hardin's death. John C. Winter told of Hardin's suspicious conduct at the time the Coroner was holding an inquest on the body of his wife,—his apparent desire to avoid observation, and to escape from the town. John Allen, the station agent at Asbury, testified that he sold the accused a ticket for New-York at the time in question. The brother and sister of the deceased rehearsed instances of the unkind treatment which Mrs. Hardin experienced from her husband soon after her marriage. Of the witnesses called yesterday morning, Mr. Dooland was the most important. He went into the circumstances attending his daughter's marriage, death and burial, in great detail, and related very many circumstances bearing strongly upon the guilt of the prisoner. The prosecution has not yet got through with its witnesses.

The Commissioners of Public Charities held their first regular meeting yesterday afternoon. The salaries of the Wardens of the Penitentiary, Almshouse, Workhouse and of Randall's Island, were reduced to $1,500 per annum, instead of $1,750 as heretofore. Mr. Joseph Keen was appointed Warden of the Penitentiary, vice Robert G. Walmsley, removed; John Fitch, Superintendent of the Workhouse, vice C. P. Degrick, removed. Moses E. Crasto was removed from his position as Warden of Randall's Island. The offices of Clerks of the Lunatic Asylum and of Bellevue Hospital; Storekeeper and Clerk on Blackwell's Island and on Randall's Island were also done away with. The entire saving to the City by this action, in salaries alone, will amount to over $5,000.

The Police Commissioners yesterday made a number of removals, appointments, and promotions of policemen. Detective Van Wagener, of Brooklyn, was allowed to reserve $200, out of a reward of $250, for arresting a Philadelphia murderer. The remaining $50 goes to the Police Fund. The Sanitary Police reported sixty-six filthy and unhealthy places in New-York and Brooklyn, whose owners were notified to cleanse them within three days. The surgeons were detailed to the various Precincts under the new régime. Mr. Pilsbury did not participate in the proceedings of the Board.

An unusually large amount of Real Estate was disposed of at auction. The most important sales were those of a portion of the estate of Wm. A. F. Pentz, and John Pentz. Included in these sales were the Atlantic Garden property, Nos. 9 and 11 Broadway, and Nos. 7 and 9 Greenwich-street, which brought $91,000; with other property in Old-slip, Water and Front streets, which realized $209,000. The only incumbrance was a mortgage of $7,000 on a portion of the Atlantic Garden.

Flour, Wheat and Corn were decidedly brisker, and prices were generally firmer. Cotton, Coffee, Metals, Rice, Naval Stores, Oils, Pork, Tallow, Teas, Tobacco, Hides and Leather were quiet. Codfish, Mackerel, Raisins, Hay, Hops and Whisky were in request. Beef, Lard and Sugars attracted considerable attention. The movements in other branches of trade were restricted.

The Stock Market yesterday continued to show depression in prices until late in the day, when, after the printed sales, there was a recovery of half per cent. on the Share list; New-York Central 79 ⅜ cent.; Missouris 84 ⅜ cent. Exchange at the close of the Persia's mail was held for 109½ ⅜ cent. Money keeps easy.

A Bull without Horns.

The bard who sang so earnestly,
"If I were King of France,
Or, still better, Pope of Rome,"
would doubtless be disposed to revise his preferences, were he living to see the actual state of the spiritual potentate whose lot once appeared to him the height of human felicity. The trebly-crowned head of the Roman Pontiff must now lie trebly uneasy on its purple pillows at the Vatican. Pius IX., in a reign of less than fourteen years, has contrived to annihilate the temporal authority of the Holy See over a most important section of its dominions; to alienate the good will of the whole Italian people from the Church confided to his charge; and is now doing his best to make his person and his office equally ridiculous throughout the civilized world. In reading the "major bull of excommunication" which this misguided prelate has been persuaded, by his foolish advisers and his own bad passions, to publish against the "invaders and usurpers of some of his Pontifical Provinces," no man of common sense, be he never so devout a Catholic, can escape a feeling of mingled shame and amusement, such as might be excited by the attempts of a portly bishop to dance upon the tight-rope, or of a wheezy old judge to sound a cavalry charge on the trumpet. Considered in its moral and religious aspects, as affording a glimpse of the sort of Christianity which is professed among Cardinals, this absurd document is indeed sufficiently horrible and revolting to excite emotions rather of indignation than of mirth. For if we can for a moment suppose that its authors believed it to have the slightest force at all, we must suppose that they believed it to carry with it the most awful pains and penalties, both for this life and for the life to come. And yet, believing this, they launch their thunderbolt, charged with the wrath of God, not at any one or another particular offender against the laws of morality; not at any atheist or impious person; not at any murderers like the Papal gendarmes, who rode maddened and furious through the streets of Rome ten days before this bull was let loose, cutting down innocent people to the right and to the left, slaying children and wounding women; not at any extortioner and usurer like Cardinal Antonelli, clutching at all the revenues of the State to swell his own estates with percentages and commissions, but at "all who have taken part" in a political revolution; spiritually cursing, that is, to the utmost extent of which cursing is capable, an indefinite number of persons for shaking off a strictly political tyranny, and making their own laws. That such an act as this should be ventured in the middle of the nineteenth Christian century, and in the name of Him who forgave his assassins from the cross, is so gross an outrage in spirit, upon the right feeling of mankind and the decencies of religion, that it is difficult to overlook the brutality of the impulses which inspired the Papal fulmination, in consideration of the driveling imbecility of the fulmination itself. It is not the Pope's fault that his bull is a bull of Dublin, rather than of Bashan; that it excites only contemptuous laughter, where it was meant to scatter anguish and dismay. His Holiness evidently regarded the world as being still the fragile China-shop into which his mediæval predecessors turned the horned and rampant executioners of their will, and the humorous contrast between the hot wrath of his maledictions and the cool scorn of the excommunicated world, is due to the progress of the race at large, and not to any benevolence, enlightenment, or Christian feeling of his own.

All Europe laughed with Punch, a few years ago, at a picture which represented Lord John Russell's feeble Parliamentary attack on the silly affectation of a few Roman Catholic priests, in arrogating to themselves the titles of English Episcopal Sees, under the figure of a small boy who chalks up the words "No Popery" on Cardinal Wiseman's door, and then runs off at full speed around the nearest corner. Pope Pius has imitated the little English Minister. Knowing, as he knows full well, that he owes the immediate downfall of his merely nominal authority in the Emilia to the Emperor of the French and the King of Sardinia, who drove away his Austrian keepers, and left the people free to decide for themselves upon their own domestic affairs, the Pope has yet shrunk from assailing these sovereigns in person. He excommunicates people in general, just as the single lodger in Dickens' novel "threw his boots down stairs on speculation;" and orders his excommunication to be pasted up where none of the parties interested can see it. There is something almost pathetically ludicrous about the following passage of this preposterous composition:

"As the present letter, as is well known, cannot be safely published everywhere, and especially in such places where it would be most required, we will that this letter, or copies of it, shall be posted on the doors of the Lateran Church, on those of the Church of the Prince of the Apostles, (basilica principis Apostolorum,) on those of the Apostolic Chancery and general curia, (curia generalis,) in Monte Citatoris, and at the corner of the field of Flora of the city, (in acie campi Floræ de Urbe,) as is usual, and the so posted and published letters, and each of these letters shall have the same power upon every one whom it concerns, as if they had been presented nominatim and personaliter.

This notion of a curse by implication is only to be paralleled by the old idea of the wise in witchcraft, that a man's life might be destroyed at a hundred miles distance by sticking pins into a waxen image made to resemble him. That such impotent and malicious nonsense could be gravely uttered at this age of the world, even by a dancing dervish, or a dyspeptic Anchorite, few people would have cared to assert without the plainest evidence of the fact before them. For the knowledge that it not only could be, but has been, uttered by the Head of a large and imposing sect of the Christian Church, the Catholic world is indebted to the enterprise of Protestant journalism. If anything is needed to rouse the sincere and sensible among the members of the Roman communion to a sense of the dangerously absurd position in which those antics of a falling despotism are putting the faith which they profess, it should be found in this circumstance. Roman Catholic Italy and Roman Catholic France refuse the Pope any opportunity of exposing his folly as a Bishop, and his feebleness as a Prince. Were it not for the Protestant Press of England, Germany and America, the "thunders of the Vatican" would make less noise in the world than the challenges and defiances of Heenan and Sayers, or the capture of Miramon's steamers before Vera Cruz.

The Democracy at Charleston.

The Democracy at Charleston are rapidly "settling to their work." They yesterday completed their organization, selecting Hon. Caleb Cushing as their permanent Chairman, and appointing a Committee to draw up the platform on which they propose to stand or fall in the coming contest. The nomination of General Cushing so far indicates a brightening prospect of harmony in the party, that the illustrious orator of Massachusetts belongs to the ornamental staff rather than to any active division of the Democratic host. He is a disciple of the school of the Vicar of Bray, and represents the flesh-pots of Egypt rather than any section or faction fanatically bent on a victory or an exodus of principle. That he should have been chosen to preside over the Convention, shows that the "cohesive force of the public plunder" has not been absolutely paralyzed by the explosive force of sectional fanaticisms or personal animosities. The unprecedented adoption of a rule deferring all ballots for the Presidential nomination till the platform of the party shall have been squared and settled, is an unmistakable concession to the demands of the friends of Mr. Douglas; and the vote by which it was also resolved that no majority of a delegation should have power to utter the voice of the State as a unit, unless in obedience to instructions given by the State Convention which appointed the delegation, if it be not a victory of the Douglas men, is at least a defeat of the so-called coalition of the Administration with the South. The front of this coalition is evidently broken. Whether it will be successfully rallied, upon the decisive battle over the platform, remains to be seen; but the proceedings of the Convention, up to this moment, while they do not, indeed, decisively prefigure the final harmony of the Democracy, very plainly intimate an impending defeat of the extreme Southern policy. A volunteer champion of this policy, indeed—Mr. Josiah Randall, of Philadelphia, long a leading Whig, and lately made famous by his declaration to Mr. Cobden that he "had never known corruption to be used in an American election"—seems to have been severely disciplined yesterday by Mr. Richardson, of Illinois, with the pretty general applause of the Convention.

Japanese Guests and New-York Hosts.

We are sorry to see that the Board of Aldermen are preparing themselves for the reception of the Japanese Embassy, and still sorrier to find that they are intent upon showing them the "Institutions." The public is so familiar with what an Alderman means when he talks of showing anybody the "Institutions" of the City, that it is unnecessary for us to explain it further than to repeat that our "Institutions," in Aldermanic parlance, include at least all the dirty and disagreeable places within the Municipal boundary. This practice of carting off all strangers to Blackwell's Island, and treating them to a minute inspection of the blotches and sores of our civilization, arose under a régime which, it is to be hoped, has now passed away. In the days of the Ten Governors, and in the old time before them, a tour of the "Institutions" meant a day of free whisky, and gratuitous cigars, and a general carouse, at the public expense. When a visit to the Island, in charge of distinguished foreigners, meant a day's eating and drinking, and boating, and joking with paupers, lunatics and convicts, we can hardly wonder that no stranger was ever allowed to escape the infliction. But the gentlemen now in charge of the "Institutions" have, it is to be hoped, taken measures to render the "Island" a less attractive resort for merry-making Committees of Reception than it used to be; and we hope, therefore, that a visit to the jails and hospitals of that savory locality will be left out of the list of tortures which are preparing for the unfortunate Japanese. When it is proposed to accord a public welcome to a stranger, one would think that even an Alderman might see the propriety of taking him to see nothing but a pleasant sight in itself—of forcing upon him none but agreable thoughts and associations—of exhibiting to him, in short, our best and brightest side, and not our worst and darkest. When a private individual welcomes a guest to his house, he puts on his best clothes, receives him in his best rooms, spreads before him his best fare and keeps him clear of everything that may be repulsive or unsightly. He never thinks of producing the dirty linen or spreading it out before him in the parlor, or of inviting him to peep into the sewer, or make an inspection of the kitchen sink, or an examination of his children down with the measles. All highly civilized communities should act upon the same rule in their corporate capacity. When a distinguished stranger visits Paris he is treated to a sight of all that is most wonderful, most glorious and most beautiful in the great capital. He is led through the picture galleries and the palaces. He is taken to drive, and hunt and shoot in the imperial parks and forests. He has his imagination fired by the sight of noble historic monuments. On the Champ de Mars he is shown the finest soldiers in the world defiling in all the pomp and pride and circumstance of matchless discipline and efficiency. If he is asked at all to visit scenes in which decrepitude, decay and disease are the most prominent features, it is where decrepitude, decay and disease call up the stirring memories of a heroic epoch, and where they are inseparably associated with the greatness and glory of France. If he enters an hospital at all, as an unsought courtesy, it is the great asylum which shelters the last relics of a grand generation, the oldest heroes of a nation of soldiers. In like manner, if he crosses the channel to London he visits the cathedrals, the Houses of Parliament, the royal palaces, the parks, the tower, and is complimented with a review on Woolwich Common. But in neither case does it enter into anybody's head to drag him to the retreats which society has in self-defence or in pity provided for vice and suffering. He is not led by the nose, under pretence of doing him a kindness, to inspect the cells and wards in which thieves and prostitutes expiate their wickedness, or in which friendless lunacy is left to rave and chatter. There are persons, no doubt, who, from philanthropic or other honorable motives, may desire to visit such scenes, but a polite host only reveals them on the visitor's own request.

We are the more earnest in making this remonstrance on behalf of the coming Japanese, because our civilization and our manners are entirely new to these guests. An European visitor does not need to be very long in the country in order to discover the exact social status of an Alderman or Common Councilman, and he is always sufficiently familiar with the working of our political system to be able to account for such anomalies as the representation of a great metropolis on State occasions by half a dozen uneducated rowdies. But a Japanese gentleman knows nothing either about rowdyism or universal suffrage. He cannot understand, and it would be impossible to explain to him, how it is that the Grinnells, and Minturns and Astors occupy private stations, while the Baglys and the Booles carry on the government. He will take it for granted that the men who receive him on behalf of the City are the princes of the population. Any other hypothesis would wound his self love, and he can entertain no other.

Moreover, all travelers who have visited the Japanese, are unanimous in claiming for them a simplicity of manners, an absence of vice, disorder, turbulence, disease and deformity, of which Western nations can only dream, as of a lost Arcadian age. The Embassy which is now on its way to us is essentially an exploring expedition. It has come to see what manner of men they are in their own homes who have so haughtily demanded on behalf of a purer faith and a higher civilization the removal of the barriers which have for three centuries at least shut out the rest of the world from the Empire of Japan. If we would not have the intercourse which has just been opened up with this strange and interesting people nipped in the bud, we must take care what side of our civilization they see. It has a darker and fouler one than they can well conceive of. The abominations which we concentrate on Blackwell's Island, and which our Common Council are so fond of showing off,—the vice, and the diseases both of mind and body which vice breeds and bequeaths,—are abominations unknown, or almost unknown, in Japan. It is no doubt creditable to our humanity and our civilization that they should be thus disposed of and cared for, but we must not forget that it would be infinitely more creditable if they did not exist at all. If we wish our visitors to return home satisfied that their Government has done wisely and well in reversing a policy as old as the Empire, and that the new relations with the Western world will redound to the happiness and improvement of their countrymen, we must take care that they be not unnecessarily introduced to an acquaintance with our prisons and lazar-houses. We have enough to be proud of in the manufactures, scenery, buildings, shipping, soldiery, and citizens of New-York, and its environs. Let us be a little more chary of throwing open the dens in which we concentrate our crime, and hide away our degradation. Certainly, if the City is to expend $25,000 or $30,000 in this Japanese reception, the Booles and Baglys ought to be able to find some better entertainment for our visitors than a ride in hacks, and a dinner of sandwiches, washed down with whiskey and water, in the ward-room of a hospital.

We are somewhat curious, furthermore, to know how and by whom the accounts of this sum of $30,000, and of its expenditure, are to be kept. Vague recollections of the obsequies of Henry Clay, of libations of champagne poured upon the statesman's coffin, and of Aldermanic corporations shrouded in the fine black cloth that should have been his pall, rise within our mind, when we hear that Boole has moved to reconsider the original appropriation of $25,000 for the expenses of the Japanese Envoys, and to increase the sum to $30,000.

How are we to invest this sum in honor and glory and comfort for the benefit of our Oriental friends? They are seventy-one in number; they will probably stay in the City three or four days at the most. Suppose that we spend $20 a day upon them, per capita, and that they remain here a week—we shall only dispose of $9,940. Does Boole contemplate $20,000 worth of fireworks, or the flooring of Broadway with Brussels carpeting, or a fountain of champagne in the Park, in which our guests, according to the candid custom of their native land, may take their morning and evening baths in the sight of a delighted and distracted populace?

Perhaps Boole may simply mean to have the City thoroughly cleaned for at least two days. This would be indeed the prettiest tribute we could pay the Envoys of the Tycoon. Nothing short of such a miracle certainly can satisfactorily explain the proposal to expend a sum larger than the annual salary of the President of the United States on two days of civic hospitality and diplomatic civility.

Miscellaneous.

—The following slip of news from Russia will not be without its interest at Washington:

"Miss Victoire Balfe, daughter of the English composer, and herself an artiste of great merit, has just been married, at St. Petersburgh, to Sir John Fiennes T. Crampton, Bart., Her Majesty's Minister at the Court of Russia. Sir John is in his 53d year."

If Sir John had been as fortunate or as wise in his domestic diplomacy on this side of the Atlantic, he might have filled a less unpleasantly conspicuous place in the annals of his times. But it is never too late to mend, and we trust the married man may find in the "horns of the altar" upon which he has seized for consolation ample indemnification for the blunders and mishaps of the bachelor. We [commend his example to another "old public functionary" on this side of the Atlantic, whose term of national service is fast drawing to an unwelcome close, and who has played Benedick even longer than Sir John.

—There is a little paper published in Alabama, under the pleasing title of the Slaveholder, edited by one Gayle. Mr. Gayle blows up a tremendous storm about the ears of John Forsyth, of the Mobile Register—accuses him of shameless mendacity, and charges all sorts of wickedness upon him. The Register copies some of the spiciest attacks upon itself, and regards them as excellent specimens of gratuitous advertising.

—On the 9th inst. Mr. David Brumley, Sen., of Greensville, Tenn., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Mary Ann Davis, living somewhere in the same vicinity. The bridegroom was 73 years of age, the blushing bride was 15. Thus "Winter oftimes lingers in the lap of May." It would be safe to bet that Mr. David Brumley, Sen., is worth a good sum in bank.

—Cotton buyers are complaining of the frequency with which matches are found in cotton. A manufacturer in Coventry lately found a box of these destructives occupying such a situation in a bale as to leave no doubt that they were put there when the cotton was packed. The dealers should not complain. It is the bountiful use of cotton that makes so many matches.

THE TARIFF BEFORE THE HOUSE

Pennsylvania Furnaces in Full Blast.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 24.

BRITISH MEDIATION IN MEXICO.

Information has been received here which confirms the statement published in the New-Orleans Picayune in relation to the efforts made by the English Government to bring the contending parties in Mexico to a settlement. Capt. Aldham, commanding officer of the British vessels of war at Vera Cruz, addressed a letter on the 24th ult. to President Juarez, congratulating him on the glorious resistance the city offered to Miramon, and renewing the efforts made before in the name of the English Government for the establishment of peace in that distracted country.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs of the Constitutional Government answered in the name of Juarez, in an elaborate note, defining the position of the Constitutional Government, showing by reference to history that peace cannot be restored while the Priests have power to conspire, as all constitutions which have been either framed by legitimate representatives of the people, or accepted by the people themselves, have been overthrown by the Priests, who will not accept anything short of supremacy, which they aim to exercise over everything in Mexico. The note goes on to compare the conduct observed towards foreigners, both by the Constitutional Government and by the Reactionists, to show that the former, notwithstanding it has not been recognized by the Ministers from England and France, has complied with the obligations of the country, and afforded protection, as far as possible, to foreigners, while the latter has committed most shocking outrages of every kind; that the Government was desirous of seeing an end put to the distracted condition of the country, and was ready to do everything consistent with its duty to bring about a settlement in which the sovereignty of the people should be acknowledged, and the great principles of civil and religious liberty be secured.

Mons. Gabriac has been recalled by his Government, and it is supposed through the influence of England, in her efforts to intervene to restore peace and secure to herself the resultant advantages.

THE SLAVE-TRADE.

The reply of Lord John Russell to the last note of Secretary Cass was received by the last mail, and discusses points of international law at great length. It is very severe upon the course of the United States. The venerable Secretary is extremely restless under the lecture read him by his Lordship, but he will pay him back in his own coin, with interest.

ARMY NEWS.

Lieut. Thos. C. Sullivan is ordered to join his company without delay at Fort Monroe. Lieut. Francis L. Guenther will join his company at Fort Randall on June 15.

The Board of Officers appointed to revise the programme of instruction at the United States Military Academy was this day dissolved.

Surgeon Mills will repair to Fort Riley by May 10, and relieve Surgeon Madison, who is assigned to duty with his command, under orders for an expedition against the Kioways and Camanches. Asst.-Surgeon A. R. Smith will repair without delay to Fort. Randall. Second-Lieut. Pearce, of the First Dragoons, is assigned to duty with a detachment of troops to proceed to Oregon.

The commanding officers of troops marching through any part of the country west of the Mississippi will hereafter keep journals of their marches, according to the form and directions prescribed. At the end of the march, a copy of the journal will be retained at the station where the troops arrive, and the original will be forwarded to the head-quarters of the Department. Thence, after a copy has been taken, it will be transmitted, through the head-quarters of the army, to the Adjutant-General, for reference at the War Department. The object of the journal is to furnish reliable information and data for maps, to be used in case new roads are to be reopened, or other bodies are to pass over the same route. Every point of practical importance is to be noted, even though it may not be indicated in the prescribed directions. Q.

THE EXCITEMENT AT THE CAPITAL.

The House was nearly deserted to-day. At one time not more than a dozen members were present. Mr. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, made a strong Tariff speech, covering the whole ground of argument and statistics. Messrs. McKnight, of Pennsylvania, Tompkins and Bingham, of Ohio, spoke upon general topics of political interest. Nothing more was done.

It was declared this evening, at a large collection of Republican members, that they had positive assurance that if Mr. Douglas was nominated, Mr. Forney would resign the Clerkship, with half a dozen of his assistants, and support that nomination.

Messrs. Beale, Kenton, Fenton, Burroughs, Graham and C. B. Cochrane, of New-York, members of the House, have gone home. Nearly all the Democratic members from New-York are at Charleston. Mr. Seward has sent his family home, and leaves himself in a few days. P.

From the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 24.

The awards for mail service in the "middle section" were announced to-day in the presence of a large number of contractors. The offers are lower than heretofore, owing to the fact that the proposals were for star bids—that is, the performance of the service without regard to the particular modes of conveyance.

The Constitution this morning says:

"The 'sensation' journals of New-York are making the most of Gov. Walker and the Covode Committee; but it is all in the way of trade—to make their papers sell. This is quite well understood here. We need not assure our readers that all the talk of these unscrupulous newspapers, whether editorial or communicated, about dissensions in the Cabinet, is entirely and absurdly false. President Buchanan and his Cabinet were, and are, a unit on the Kansas policy. The allusions in a New-York journal to alleged differences have not a particle of fact to rest upon; indeed, if the writers had tasked their inventive faculties to the utmost, they could not have reached a result more flagrantly the opposite of the truth."

It appears from the official statement communicated by the Secretary of the Navy to the House to-day that the number of officers and men attached to the African Squadron who have died from the date of the Ashburton Treaty to the present time is 80, including nine officers, or an average of five deaths per annum.

About thirty members of the House are prepared to deliver speeches on political subjects. No other business save this will be transacted this week, a working quorum not being available. Toward the adjournment, to-day, there were not more than half a dozen members in the hall.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 24.

The Speaker laid before the House the message from the President in reply to a resolution, in which he says that since the admission of Minnesota into the Union, no act has been performed by him recognizing the existence of an organized Government in the remaining or outside Territory of Minnesota.

The House went into the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

Mr. Bingham, of Ohio, (Rep.,) reviewed with severity the political conduct of those whom he characterized as the sectional slave power, and advocated the exclusion of Slavery from all places where the United States Government has jurisdiction as the best method of allaying sectional strife. But the President and his party seemed determined that this sectional strife should never cease.

Mr. Noell, of Missouri, (Dem.,) alluded to the history of political parties, defending the Democracy.

Mr. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, advocated the protection of American industry. With his constituents it was a question of bread.

Mr. Howard, of Ohio, (Dem.,) defined his position as a Democrat, declaring himself in favor of popular sovereignty to the fullest extent.

Mr. McKnight, of Pennsylvania, (Rep.,) made a speech in favor of the protection of American industry, and against Pro-Slavery sectionalism, and especially the Calhoun dogma, that the Constitution, of its own strength, went into the territories and there protected Slavery. He showed the "incendiary cry," as Col. Benton termed it, that the North wished to interfere with the rights of the South, was unfounded, and intended for agitation. In relation to the Charleston Convention, he spoke of the moulding process now progressing to fashion a candidate into a shape acceptable to the slave propagandists, and likened the whole proceedings to an English raree show, where one performer swallowed another, and a third swallowed the two, and then turned a flip-flap and jumped down his own throat, leaving the spectators in the dark. Mr. McKnight proceeded to show that the Fathers of the Republic were more thoroughly Anti-Slavery than the present Republican Party.

Mr. Morris, of Pennsylvania, (Rep.,) deprecated the neglect of the material interests of the country, and the exclusive discussion of sectional questions. It should be the aim of American statesmen to remove, as far as possible, all causes of alienation and distrust between the different sections of the nation, and seek rather to unite them by common interests as a people. He knew of nothing which more nearly touched a young, active nation like that of the United States than the question of labor, and the development of its resources, and the employment of its people. This was an interest in which both North and South had an equal concern, for they were closely linked together by natural relations; the former producing the raw material which is fabricated in the industrial marts of the North, where free labor abounds, the latter section being also the carrier of the products of the sugar and cotton fields of the South, and by its wealth derived from mining, manufacturing and shipping investments, contributing to the general wealth and material power of the whole country. The instability of our tariff legislation, he said, was in striking contrast with the legislation of all other nations on the subject, whose policy was to graduate customs and duties so as to encourage the steady and progressive growth of domestic industry, and never to rudely sanction it, as we had done, by sudden and reckless changes. The pending tariff bill was constructed with such a moderate range of duties as to avoid the hostility of the opponents of high duties and thus to give the pledge of permanency, which would invite millions of inactive capital to engage in useful and productive enterprises. He then proceeded to the discussion of the Tariff bill in detail, which though not equally acceptable to all whose interests it touched, was in the main one of the best bills ever reported by a Committee of Ways and Means; a measure, which if placed on the statute book, would be of incalculable benefit to his constituents and the whole country.

The Committee rose and the House adjourned.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sunday, April 22, 1860.

Very little attention is being paid to the proper observance of the Sabbath. Late last evening the Telegraph office was crowded, but all were obliged to retire dissatisfied. No news came from Charleston, except that the town was crowded and considerable excitement prevailed. This morning news came. Three dispatches to different persons were received, each corroborating the other—one to your correspondent, stating that six of the Southern States had met in caucus last night and resolved that they would adhere to the Alabama platform, which includes the Southern Slave code, and that Pennsylvania had decided by a large majority to go against Douglas. This is equivalent to eighty votes against him, not counting the votes from those States which were set down in the calculation I sent you the other day as doubtful, or against him. So that my criticism upon those figures, if these dispatches can be relied on, was correct. This news has fallen like a thunderbolt upon the friends of Douglas, but they do not of course give it up thus early. Dispatches have been sent from high quarters here this morning to Charleston to stand firm against all opposition. These will be made public there, and have the effect to raise Douglas stock somewhat, perhaps. That is evidently what they are intended to accomplish.

All the telegraph wires between Charleston and this place are preoccupied by the Press and politicians, except one that is reserved for private business. The betting men have control of them to a great extent, it is said—so that numerous false reports will be put in circulation.

The chief opposition to Douglas comes from Slidell and Cushing. Here the two extremes meet in a bond of common interest. They are two of the most crafty and dangerous opponents in the Democratic ranks. Both are ambitious, uncompromising and cunning. You would perhaps be somewhat surprised to know the great number of Republicans who have gone to Charleston. A party of twenty, including some of the most shrewd wire-workers in the East, went on last evening. It may seem a little strange that such a man as Caleb Cushing should be working hand-in-glove with these "Black Republicans;" but such I have strong reasons to believe is the case. No one knows better than he the best appliances to bring to carry his point.

When the testimony of Hon. R. J. Walker before the Covode Investigating Committee, and the letter of the President to that gentleman, were made public the universal cry was, that Walker had done this to secure the nomination of Mr. Douglas at Charleston, and make it certain, by showing that Mr. Buchanan stood upon exactly the same Squatter Sovereignty ground as Mr. Douglas. This may have been the purpose of Mr. Walker, but the effect has been just the reverse. Southern men draw a far different conclusion from it. Messrs. Mason, Slidell, Hunter and others say that these facts demonstrate what the South has all along maintained, that the whole North is opposed to their Institution—Slavery—and that it is a section arrayed against a section. That the doctrine of Squatter or Popular Sovereignty is but little if any better than that of the Republicans, and the President has only aimed to please the South for the purpose of securing his own renomination. It is time now, they say, for Northern Democrats, if they really wish as they profess, to avoid this sectional issue, to give them a candidate for the Presidency whose interests are identified with the South, and one in whom they can place implicit confidence. Thus the weapons of Mr. Douglas are turned against himself.

It is evident that nothing has happened in the whole course of Mr. Buchanan's Administration which has disturbed him so much as this revelation by Mr. Walker. He has walked the streets every morning and afternoon, stopping on the corners to talk of it indiscriminately. He denounces the treachery of Walker in betraying his confidence in the most unmeasured terms, and it is reported, with how much truth I do not know, that he was willing and desirous that Judge Black should accept Walker's challenge, and meet him on the field.

The Cabinet held a half day's session on Friday last, on the subject of the challenge. They exhausted all their resources to discover where the correspondents obtained their knowledge of the evidence and the letter, but were unable to discover. It was the opinion of most of them that it was published, as stated before, for political purposes, and so the matter was dropped. It occasions considerable comment, that the Cabinet of the United States should convene to discuss and decide a matter of honor between two gentlemen. Those who acknowledge the Code agree that Mr. Black has the right, from the important position he occupies, to decline a challenge where his life would be endangered; and from the reputation of Walker as a man of pluck, and an excellent "shot," it certainly would be endangered were they to meet.

The friends of Governor Seward are in high glee at the prospect of Mr. Douglas' defeat, as they regard Mr. Seward's nomination as certain in that case. A member of Congress from Pennsylvania tells me, however, that Mr. Seward will meet the same fate at Chicago that the latter wishes for Douglas at Charleston. This member is a McLane man.

Mr. Wigfall, at the request of his friends, has waited upon Lord Lyons, and explained and apologized for the affront he gave him a few days since. He had partially apologized for it before. He explains it as an inadvertance, entirely without the intention of insulting him, and an accident. Mr. Wigfall must study good breeding, and leave off stump rhetoric in the Senate chamber, or by and by he will pick up some one who has not so much forbearance as our English Lord.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

THE AMERICAN FIRE-ALARM AND POLICE TELEGRAPH.—The proprietors of this wonderful invention, which is now in successful operation in the cities of Boston, St. Louis and Baltimore, and is about to be introduced in New Orleans, gave an exhibition of its workings at Tammany Hall yesterday, to a large number of invited guests, including both branches of the City Government, members of the Press, and others. The exhibition was entirely successful, and the superiority of this telegraph over all others in use for the same purpose, was made apparent to all. As the exhibition is to be open to the public for several days, during which all our citizens who feel an interest in the subject will have an opportunity to witness its operations for themselves, an extended description of it is unnecessary. Suffice it to say, that by means of this telegraph the exact location of a fire breaking out in any district in the City may be made known to all the firemen of that district, or of any or all other districts, or even to every inhabitant of the City, if necessary, within five minutes from the time it is discovered by the persons in the house where it originates. The alarm is first given to the head-quarters of the telegraph, by turning a crank in a box stationed nearest to the fire, (these boxes may be placed on every block,) and thence spread over the whole City, if necessary, by telegraphic wires, which connect with the tower bells of each District, with gongs in every engine-house, and also with small bells inside of every alarm-box—any one of which, or all together, may be set to ringing instantaneously by the man in attendance at head-quarters. The gongs at the engine-houses, and the bells in the alarm-boxes, are not of such magnitude as to be a nuisance on account of their noise, for the first would not be heard outside the engine-houses, and the last can only be heard by putting the ear to the box; but their object is to enable all firemen, and such other citizens as desire the information, to ascertain the exact locality of a fire before running in pursuit of it. So with regard to the tower bells: the telegraph is enabled to ring them all simultaneously if necessary, but in ordinary cases only the bell of the District in which the fire is located would be set in motion. The locality of the fire is indicated by the number of strokes on the small bells in the alarm-boxes. Equal facilities are afforded to the Police Department by these alarm-boxes, in enabling any policeman to call for assistance at any given point, and also to indicate the amount of help required. The whole apparatus is extremely simple, not liable to get out of order, and does its work with a rapidity, precision and certainty truly astonishing. It has one serious objection, however, which will probably prevent its ever being introduced into this City. It dispenses with the services of bell-ringers, and would thus deprive several friends of our Aldermen and Councilmen of positions worth $500 per annum.

THE FULTON-STREET PRAYER MEETING.—Two years and seven months have elapsed since the opening of the Business Men's Daily Prayer Meetings in the North Dutch Church in Fulton-street, and the interest apparently remains unabated. During the first half hour of the meeting yesterday, several hundreds of persons gathered in the Consistory Rooms, soon filling the upper apartment and then overflowing down the staircase into a lower chamber. For a considerable time before the hour of closing, two distinct meetings were in progress, the exercises consisting of prayer, exhortation, singing and reading the Scriptures. Numerous requests for an interest in the prayers of Christians were received, one from a mother who mourned over the worldliness of her only son; another from a wife who prayed for the conversion of her husband and four sons; a third from a lady whose daughter lay dangerously ill and bereft of religious consolation; still another, from a father who hoped that his son might be confirmed in his resolution to become a Christian. A "feeble church in Northern New-York" entreated the brethren in the meeting to pray that a persecution set on foot against its pastor might cease. A mother, whose former petition for the conversion of members of her family had been answered, wrote a note of thanks. Notes of similar purport with these are daily received. The regular attendants upon the meetings are chiefly business men, but yesterday a large number of ladies were present. A bethel preacher announced that he had just entered upon his 77th year; that he had preached the gospel for forty-one years, and that, although he had been instrumental in saving many souls, he had resolved to begin his work anew, with the beginning of a new year of his life. Old men and young joined freely in the prayers; the whole congregation sang familiar hymns, and the ladies occupied the place of quiet spectators, taking no active part in any of the exercises. The resolutions originally established for the government of the meetings still remain in force, and the placards which were hung upon the walls in September, 1857, continue to occupy their accustomed places. Each speaker is limited to five minutes, and the rule which forbids the discussion of controverted points is strictly enforced. The conductors of this enterprise aver that a great deal of good has been accomplished, and regard the question of its permanency as beyond a doubt.

FLUSHING RAILROAD—SUMMER ARRANGEMENTS—IMPROVEMENTS AT HUNTER'S POINT.—The managers of the New-York and Flushing Railroad announce in to day's TIMES their arrangements for running their trains during the Summer, beginning on the 1st of May. By this schedule it will be seen that there are to be seven trains run to Flushing daily, including two which leave Hunter's Point, and six return trains, two of which will also cross the Thirty-fourth-street ferry. By all the other trains passengers leave Fulton Market-slip on board of the steamer Mattano. This is a large increase of the accommodations heretofore enjoyed by the patrons of the road, and they appear greatly pleased by the change. The rates of commutation have also been largely reduced, which has had a favorable effect upon the traffic of the road. The Sunday excursion trains were found to work so well last season, they are to be continued, four trains leaving New-York and the same number from Flushing. J. S. BATTORFF Esq., is the Superintendent, under whose supervision extensive repairs have been made on different portions of the road. The locomotives have been newly repaired, the cars painted, and every preparation made for the accommodation of the Summer travel. Extensive improvements are making at Hunter's Point for the business of the Long Island Railroad, which is to terminate at that place. Some ten acres of land are to be made by filling in the docks for the erection of the car houses, engine houses, machine shop and dépôt, necessary. Machines are busy driving piles to afford a solid foundation for these structures, and a fleet of sloops and schooners are employed bringing materials from various places to fill in with. The completion of these works, and the accumulation of the Long Island traffic at this point, it is supposed, will produce important changes in the character of real estate, many believing that a large and flourishing village will grow up around that locality.

LARGE SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—A portion of the property belonging to the estate of the late WM. A. F. and JOHN PENTZ, of this City, deceased, was sold yesterday at the Merchants' Exchange. That portion of it which was located in the First Ward, together with that in Tenth, Fourteenth, and Twenty-eighth streets, brought the sum total of $330,000. The whole estate was valued at $675,000, as follows: The old Atlantic Garden, on Broadway, near Bowling-green, running through to Greenwich-street, $91,000. This property was bought about the year 1840, by PENTZ & Co., for $15,000. At one time since that they were offered $125,000 for it, which was refused. The other property in the First Ward consisted chiefly of stores and warehouses located in Old-slip, Water-street, Front-street, Greenwich-street and Trinity-place. The gross amount of their City property realized $330,000; the Bloomingdale property $250,000; the Brooklyn property, $50,000; Hudson River property, comprising mills, &c., $30,000; and Hudson City property, $15,000. The estate—real, personal, and mixed—of the late WM. A. F. PENTZ, alone, was estimated, shortly after his decease, at $490,000. The property now has been sold under an order of the Supreme Court, on a partition suit, and goes principally to his heirs. Mr. PENTZ was for many years a prominent merchant of this City—was born in the First Ward, was distinguished for his benevolence and integrity of character, and is said to have been one of the best judges of the value of real estate in the City. He was an extensive importer and dealer in dye-woods, by which he laid the foundation of his fortune. The increase in the value of City property did the rest. He left a large family, all of whom are engaged in active business of a mercantile or professional character.

NEW-YORK SOCIETY LIBRARY—ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the shareholders of the New-York Society Library was held last evening, at the Library Rooms. G. C. VERPLANCK, President of the Board of Trustees, called the meeting to order. The Committee to whom was referred the rights of minors to vote, made a long report adverse to that change in the custom of the Society. Because of a difference of opinion among the legal gentlemen on this point, the resolution proposing such a change was voted down. The election for officers for the ensuing year resulted in the choice of the old Board, as follows: Gulian C. Verplanck, Charles R. Swords, Charles E. Strong, William Adams, Robert L. Kennedy, Otis D. Swan, William J. Hoppin, John Romeyn Brodhead, George Folsom, Thomas Ward, Henry C. Dorr, Wm. Allen Butler, Stacy B. Collins, Evert A. Duyckinck, William McMurray. The Treasurer's report showed that the entire income of the year has been $5 789 54, and that the current and necessary expenses were $5,173 54, leaving a balance of $616. Five hundred and thirty volumes have been purchased, and three hundred donated during the year; total added to the library 830 volumes. Ten new members were admitted during the year.

SHOCKING NEGLECT AT BELLEVUE HOSPITAL.—On Sunday afternoon a poor Irish woman, 31 years of age, was admitted to Bellevue Hospital, that she might be properly cared for during her confinement, which she hourly anticipated. One of the physicians attended to her immediate necessities and consigned her to the charge of the nurses for the night. On going his rounds in the morning he found that his patient had, during the night, given birth to a full-grown infant, but that the suffering woman had received no attention whatever, and that the child was SUICIDE.—NICHOLAS BIERBRACH, a Frenchman and bar-keeper at No. 112 West Broadway, attempted to commit suicide last evening, by shooting himself twice in the mouth. Both balls took effect, and lodged in the neck. Medical assistance was immediately procured, and it was deemed advisable to have him removed to the City Hospital. The deed was committed in the presence of his mistress. Jealousy is supposed to have been the motive.

INSTRUCTIVE ENTERTAINMENT FOR SCHOOLS.—By an announcement elsewhere, it will be seen that arrangements have been made to admit the select and Public Schools of the City to visit the painting of the "Court of Death," at the Cooper Institute.

Coroners' Inquests.

THE CASE OF HENRY DEDRICKSON.

A large number of persons were yesterday examined by Coroner SCHIRMER, at the inquest upon the body of HENRY DEDRICKSON, the Swedish sailor, who died at the New-York Hospital on Monday, in consequence of having been severely wounded in the head with a slung-shot or other instrument by a party of sailors, who attacked him at the corner of Washington and Carlisle streets. None of the witnesses, however, could identify MURPHY, GREENWOOD, WILLIAMS and MOSS, the sailors under arrest, as having been implicated in the homicide, and therefore they were discharged from custody. From the testimony of JAMES RAY, keeper of a boarding-house at No. 8 Carlisle-street, it is believed that two men, called JAMES FARRELL and "Scotty," who were apprehended on suspicion, but discharged for lack of evidence, and who subsequently went to sea, are the parties who inflicted the injuries, and the Jury returned a verdict that death had resulted "from injuries received on the 7th day of April, 1860, at the hands of some persons or person unknown." To this, they added, "we suspect that JAMES FARRELL and WILLIAM ——, alias 'Scotty,' are implicated either as principals or accessories to his death." The Coroner issued his warrant for the arrest of the accused.

Fires.

IN DWELLING HOUSES AND STORES.

The unoccupied dwelling-house at the corner of Eighth-avenue and One Hundred and Fifty-ninth-street, belonging to ARCHIBALD WATTS, was burned down at 10½ o'clock on Monday night, the fire having been kindled by an incendiary. It was valued at $1,500, and was insured for $1,000 in the New-York Ætna....The roof of the building No. 135 Pitt-street was ignited by a spark falling from the chimney, between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and a loss of $309 was sustained upon the building, which is owned by Mr. JAMES RITTER; insured the Bowery Insurance Company. The stock of groceries in the store on the first floor of the building, which was slightly damaged, is fully insured in the Citizens' Company....At 10¾ o'clock yesterday morning the building No. 1 Sixth-avenue caught fire, in consequence of the sparks from a neighboring chimney lodging in the shingle roof. The flames were soon extinguished, but Mr. JAMES SPENCER, the proprietor of a toy store on the first floor, had his stock injured by water to the extent of $200; insured in the Equitable Company for $3,500.

IN AN OAKUM LOFT.

At 11 o'clock last night the oakum loft in the shipyard of JACOB A. WESTERVELT, at the foot of Houston-street, caught fire, it is supposed from the steam-chest. The loss will probably amount to $300; but whether the building was insured or not, could not be ascertained.

THE INDEPENDENT OF THIS WEEK
Has an account, by
MRS. HARRIET BEECHER STOWE,
"THE EXCOMMUNICATION BY THE POPE."
As soon as it was known in Rome that "The Excommunication" had been promulgated, Mrs. STOWE, with a party of friends, drove to St. Peter's to see the Pope's fulminating parchment nailed on the church doors. She gives a graphic and vigorous description of the scene, including not only its grave, but humorous features.
WILLIAM ALLEN BUTLER
Contributes a dainty bit of satire, entitled
"FUNGUS, AND HIS LAST INVESTMENT."
The last investment of the distinguished capitalist to whom Mr. B. refers in this article, was the "buying of a Legislature," by which he put a Senate in one pocket and an Assemby in the other. Mr. Fungus explains how he made a million of dollars. He says:
"Money, Sir, money! You can do anything you like with it, if you only know how to use it."

FACTS.
In this paper we present to the public unimpeachable testimony establishing the facts that RADWAY'S READY RELIEF, REGULATING PILLS, and RENOVATING RESOLVENT, are not only positive curatives of the sick afflicted with disease, but that they have in many cases proved to be infallible, and have restored the dying patient to robust health after all other means of medication failed.
SECOND WITNESS.
Isaac Huddleston, Huddleston Rapids Parish, La., testifies:
"That Peter May, mail carrier, had for months suffered so severely from rheumatism that neither his physicians nor friends entertained hopes of his recovery. His right arm and leg were so perished as to give him no use of them. By the use of Radway's Ready Relief and Regulating Pills in two months he was carrying the mail from Cherryville to Burr's Ferry."

PROF. MITCHEL'S NEW BOOK.
In Press, and to be published May 1:
A POPULAR ASTRONOMY, BY
O. M. MITCHEL, LL. D.,
Director of the Cincinnati and Dudley Observatories.
1 vol. 12mo. Illustrated. Price $1 25.
This book is acknowledged by competent critics, by whom the proof-sheets have been examined, to be one of the most successful attempts ever made by any writer to explain a complicated science to the easy comprehension of the popular mind.
The author sets out with his reader upon an untiresome
JOURNEY THROUGH THE SOLAR SYSTEM, FROM THE
SUN TO NEPTUNE,
Stopping at each of the Planetary Bodies by the Way.
The appearance of the Sun and the Planets, as seen through a powerful telescope, is accurately and graphically pictured while, by a succession of admirable descriptions of the most complicated astronomical instruments, the reader is seated, in imagination, by the Professor in his Observatory, where all the intricacies of Transit and Azimuth, of Right Ascension and Parallax, are rendered simple and beautiful to a mind ignorant of sine or cosine.
The book, being adapted to general family reading, contains but few mathematical diagrams. The author has been signally successful in solving to the reader's mind many abstruse mathematical problems, without the aid of figures.
A series of LITHOGRAPHIC PRINTS, giving pictorial representations of various striking phenomena connected with the Solar System, constitutes an additional attractive feature of the work.
The successive chapters, gradually evolving a complete history of the discovery, the order, and the phenomena of the Planetary System, excited a lively interest to the end. The vigorous and graphic style, the numerous historical incidents and illustrations, the fresh and unhackneyed mode of approaching and discussing the successive themes, will strikingly recall to the reader the author's interesting public lectures on the same general subject.
Advance orders from the trade solicited.

The Slave-Yacht Wanderer.

THE CLAIM OF THE CREW ALLOWED.

From the Boston Traveller, April 23.

This forenoon, Judge SPRAGUE, of the United States District Court, gave a decision in the case board some two weeks since, of the seamen of the bark Wanderer, claiming wages from the owner of that vessel. He said the seamen of the vessel had two claims—one for wages and the other for salvage. As the last claim was involved in the main question at issue, between the United States Government and the owner, whether the vessel should be condemned because of her being fitted out by him for the Slave-trade, he only gave a decision on the question of wages, at this time.

He said there could be no doubt that the vessel left Charleston upon an illegal voyage. The defence against the claim for wages was based on two grounds: 1st, That the crew knowingly and willfully sailed, having full knowledge of the purpose of the voyage; and 2d, That the owner, Mr. LAMAR, did not confer upon the master of the bark, Mr. MARTIN, such authority as to give the seamen a lien for wages. The Court held that LAMAR's connection with MARTIN was such as to give the seamen a claim, reserving for further consideration a full definition of LAMAR's connection with the Captain.

The question whether the crew were ignorant and innocent of the purpose of the voyage, was considered at some length by the Court. It held that WELTON, the first mate, must have known that the voyage was to the Coast of Africa, and that he did not take the first opportunity that offered to redeem the vessel. The libel as regards him was therefore dismissed.

No knowledge of the purpose of the voyage, as regards the other claimants, had been shown. The story that they were carried off unwillingly was not improbable, and such occurrences had been brought to his notice before. It was not strange that they did not revolt at the first opportunity, because they were strangers to each other, and did not know whom to trust. Neither was it strange that they did not make complaints to the United States Consul, at the port where the vessel stopped, because the Consul appeared to be a friend of the captain, and was a Portuguese, not understanding our language. Seamen had but little confidence in Consuls who are not Americans, and to show that they had reason for their distrust, he related several instances of hardships suffered by our sailors at their hands. As soon as the proposition was made to them to take the vessel to Boston, all heartily agreed to it.

The Court then decreed wages to all except the first mate from the time the vessel sailed till she reached Boston. The claims amount to about $800 and costs. All except those of the carpenter, the second mate, and the acting mate home, were for less than $50 each, and no appeal can be taken. The other claims being above $50 each, the respondent may take an appeal. If salvage should hereafter be allowed the crew, a portion of the wages now received will be deducted therefrom.

This case has been conducted by W. H. JUDSON, for the crew; J. A. ANDREWS and A. G. BROWNE, Jr., for owner.

Resignation of Capt. Pilsbury.

HIS REASONS FOR REMOVING TO ALBANY.

From the Albany Evening Journal, April 24.

The NEW-YORK TIMES of this morning says:

"It is rumored that General-Superintendent PILSBURY has resigned his Commissionership, and that his resignation has been accepted by the Governor. Possibly the General's resignation may be accompanied, as before, with a letter of explanation."

This rumor is well-founded. Among the reasons which have induced this resignation is the fact that one of the sections of the new Police act precludes the Commissioners from holding any other office. As Capt. P., during all his sojourn in New-York, has kept up a general supervision of our Penitentiary, by appointment of the Supervisors of this County, the alternative of Police Commissioner of the Metropolitan District or Superintendent of the Albany Penitentiary was presented him. The former was far the more lucrative and influential office; but he chose the latter. He deems our Penitentiary a child of his own, from which he will not permit himself to be voluntarily separated.

We rejoice, in common with all our citizens, that the Captain has made this selection; and, while it may not result to his pecuniary advantage, it will, we have no doubt, result in his personal comfort and happiness. In now returning among us, as he will "bag and baggage," on the 1st of May, he does so with the expection of "going no more out," until his reformatory and beneficient labors shall have ceased altogether. We welcome him home again!

EARTHQUAKE AT SEA.—The brig African, which arrived at this port yesterday from Port au Prince, with a cargo of coffee and logwood, consigned to Messrs. MILLER & HOUSTON, reports having experienced a violent shock of an earthquake at midnight on the 9th inst., when 30 miles from Port au Prince, in 40 fathoms of water. On the night of the 10th she experienced a similar shock. The crew were aroused by the violence of the concussion, believing that the vessel was on a reef or in collision.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC CHARITIES.

FIRST REGULAR MEETING OF THE BOARD—WHOLESALE ABOLITION OF SINECURES.

The first regular meeting of the newly constituted Board was held yesterday, every member being present.

After the reading of the minutes, the requisition from the Almshouse came up first in order, showing the diminution in the number of inmates to be 77 during the past week. There being no decrease in the quantity of supplies required, some discussion arose as to the reason why the same quantity was required for fewer inmates, but the requisition was finally passed.

The requisitions for the other Departments were referred to the Committee of the Whole. Some of them drew forth questions as to the remarkable quantity of soft soap and molasses required for the various Institutions.

A communication from B. F. PINCKNEY, Ex-President of the late Board of Ten Governors, with reference to unsettled accounts of the old Board, was referred to a Committee of the Whole.

Mr. NICHOLSON offered a series of resolutions, to the effect that the salaries of the Wardens of the Penitentiary, Almshouse, Workhouse, and of Randall's Island, be fixed at $1,500 each, instead of $1,750, as heretofore. The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

He also offered resolutions that Mr. Joseph Keon be appointed Warden of the Penitentiary vice Robt. G. Walmsley, removed; John Fitch, Superintendent of Workhouse, vice Stephen M. Drew, removed; N. P. Anderson, Warden of Almshouse, vice C. P. Degreck, removed, all of which were adopted. Moses E. Crasto, Warden of Randall's Island, was removed, but no appointment made to fill the vacancy. All the above removals and appointments are to take effect on May 1. In addition to the above, the Board, on the motion of the same gentleman, abolished the offices of Clerks of the Lunatic Asylum and Bellevue Hospital, thus diminishing the expenses of the taxpayers to the amount of $2,400. They also abolished the office of "Storekeeper" on Blackwell's Island, with his clerk, the salaries for which positions amount to $1,818; also the same sinecures on Randall's Island, amounting to $1,500—thus making a total saving to the City of over $5,000 annually. This amount will go far towards paying the salaries of the Commissioners. No reasons were given for removals, nor for the abolition of offices.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

APPOINTMENTS AND REMOVALS—POLICEMEN ALLOWED TO RETAIN REWARDS—FIRST BENEFITS OF THE NEW SANITARY POLICE.

The new Board of Police Commissioners held a secret meeting yesterday. Mr. BOWEN, acting General Superintendent, submitted a code of revised rules and regulations for the government of the force under the new law. The rules were referred to Messrs. BOWEN and BERGEN, with power to complete the revision and to circulate printed copies among the members of the force. Wm. C. Booth was apointed patrolman in place of James M. Munson, of the First Precinct, Brooklyn, resigned. David H. Martin, in place of Richard Austin, of the Second Precinct, Brooklyn, resigned. Edward Gallifar was appointed doorman of the Eighth Precinct, Brooklyn.

Henry W. Van Wagener, of the detective force, Brooklyn, sent a communication setting forth that he had been paid the sum of $250 from the authorities in Philadelphia, for the arrest of George Washington Riekle, the murderer of Henry Ganker, in January, 1860; Officer Van Wagener asked permission to keep the reward. Upon motion of Mr. BERGEN, the officer was allowed to retain $200, and $50 was given to the Police Fund. This is an unusually liberal allowance from the Board, and is considered by the force as initistory to allowing policemen to retain a fair proportion of rewards which by extra vigilance they have earned.

Patrolman Gerst, of the Twenty-Sixth Precinct, M. B. Wilson, of the Steamboat Squad, and John Jourdan, of the Sixth Precinct, were promoted to be Sergeants. David Blair, M. S. Farnham, and G. W. Mould, were appointed patrolmen, and the President, Mr. BOWEN, was authorized to make the necessary detailments.

The Sanitary Police reported a list of places as requiring cleansing. The Board ordered that the owners have the regular three days' notice to renovate their premises, after which time they will be liable to be cleansed at the public expense, the cost to be a lien on the property until paid. The following are the places: No. 139 Duane-street, No. 16 Worth-street, No. 14 Worth-street, No. 10 Thomas-street, Nos. 16 and 10 York-street, No. 156 Worth-street, Nos. 181, 83, 215, 217, 206 East Thirty-fifth-street, Nos. 174 and 176 East Thirty-first-street, Nos. 28, 30, 32 and 46 Trinity-place; Nos. 79, 77, 67 Greenwich-street; Nos. 18 and 20 Morris street; Nos. 186, 190, 187, 206 East Thirty-second-street; No. 174 East Twenty-eighth-street; Nos. 539, 537, 533, 535 First-avenue; Nos. 101 and 141 Walker-street; No. 36 Pearl-street; No. 35 Washington-street; No. 251 Spring-street; No. 139 Reed-street; No. 17 Hudson-street; Nos. 195, 193, 175, 177, 188 East Thirty-second-street; No. 526 Second-avenue; No. 408 First-avenue; No. 267 East Twenty-first-street; Nos. 19 and 111 Mulberry-street; Nos. 73, 75 and 77 Washington-street.

BROOKLYN—Fish Market filthy; No. 57½ Pearl-street; Nos. 92 and 90 Jay-street; No. 62 Nassau-street; Nos. 77, 74 and 70 York-street; Nos. 46 and 25 Green-lane; Nos. 73, 75, 77, 79 and 81 Baltic-street, (hogs in the yard.)

The Board made the following assignments of Surgeons: First, Second, Third, Fifth and Twenty-fourth Precincts, New-York, Kennedy; Fourth, Sixth and Fourteenth Precincts, and House of Detention, Waterman; Seventh, Tenth and Thirteenth Precincts, and Court Squad, Mott; Eighth and Ninth Precincts, Fisher; Eleventh and Seventeenth Precincts, Wells; Fifteenth and Eighteenth Precincts, Frellgh; Sixteenth and Twentieth Precincts, Gould; Twenty-first and Nineteenth Precincts, and Steamboat, Railroad and Sanitary Squads, Jones; Twenty-second, Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Precincts, Ranney; Twenty-third and Twelfth Precincts, Kimbark.

The Board meets again to-day. Mr. PILSBURY was not present yesterday, and, it is rumored, will take no further part in the proceedings of the Board—in which he is made a cipher.

THE CROTON DEPARTMENT.

RESULT OF THE VISIT OF THE BOARD TO THE CONTRACTORS.

The visit of the Croton Board and their officials to the various contractors in their employ, resulted in summoning every one of the parties who are now laying down the Belgian or trap-block pavement before the Board yesterday, and in giving them official notice that unless they adhered more strictly to the specifications of their contracts, they should be considered voided. Further official notice was given to the Inspectors on these various contracts, that if they did not see the contract and the specifications fully carried out, they should be discharged. Among the contractors thus notified are some very prominent parties, who have made heavy marks on the Comptroller's books. This action of the Croton Board has taken some of them, who have been accustomed to have their own way, entirely by surprise, and the idea of adhering to specifications appears so preposterous that they find it difficult to realize that the Board is in earnest.

The Sporting World.

PRIZE-FIGHT BETWEEN HARRY GRIBBIN AND ED. WILSON—SIXTY-ONE ROUNDS AND A DRAWN BATTLE.

That portion of the governing classes in the City of New-York, in Jersey City, and in Hoboken, who were without either money or leisure to enable them to be present at the great international match in England, were enabled to enjoy a moiety of kindred excitement this morning by witnessing the long-talked-of fight between HARRY GRIBBIN and ED. WILSON, both of New-Jersey. In consequence of a very general belief that the fight would not take place at all, but few had made preparations to attend it, and the precise ground had not been made known to any. On Monday, however, the steam-tug J. R. Fraser was engaged for the principals, and the most prominent bruisers who were to attend them, and early in the evening the steamboat Ceres was chartered to take from New-York a party who were desirous of selecting their own company, so far as the trip was concerned. The understanding was, that the J. R. Fraser would appear at the Weehawken Dock at a late hour of night and take off her passengers to the scene of the fight, and that the more select party would follow immediately from the New-York side. The Weehawken boat, however, drew out from her pier much earlier than had been anticipated, because of the appearance of a large number of persons in the vicinity, who, it was believed, did not intend to pay the requisite $5 for the passage, and might make a difficulty on board. When she left the pier she had but few of her intended passengers on board, other than the principals in the fight, some of their seconds, and a few of their friends. Nearly one hundred of those who had procured tickets were left on shore, complaining loudly of the treatment they had received. In order to make matters more satisfactory, and still keep off those not entitled to a passage, the Jersey boat attempted to land at a pier above, from which only one person could have entered at a time, but unfortunately for those interested, when the pier was reached by those in the secret on shore, no light could be found, and the captain of the steamtug did not deem it safe to attempt a landing in the darkness—it being then about 1 o'clock this morning. The best that could be done was to send the small boat ashore, and take them off in that way; but misfortune was again their reward, for no sooner had the first boat load reached the tug, than the New-York boat appeared crossing the river. In the excitement of the moment, the New-York party was mistaken for a strong police force, and the Jersey boat ran to escape them. In order the better to evade her pursuers, her lights were all taken down, and she was run rap-world which has since [illegible] all past theories in regard to the limitation [illegible] Banking, save that of Sir ROBERT PEEL, which [illegible] that £14,000,000 in Government Stock and the Bullion on hand would be sufficient, for all time, for the National Bank Note Currency of the Kingdom. It would now begin to be felt, in a season of unexampled manufacturing prosperity, as it has been twice realized in seasons the reverse of confident; that the rule of £14,000,000, (or £14,475,000 as since enlarged,) is unwisely restrictive as well as exceedingly arbitrary.

When the Peel charter was granted in 1844, on the capital stock of fourteen and a half million sterling, the Issue Department was limited to £14,000,000 Government Stock, and the amount of Bullion lodged in that Department, as the basis of Bank Note Circulation. The Bullion at the close of that year was £14,446, 000 The active circulation then stood £21,156,000; leaving in the Banking Department a reserve of Notes Unemployed of about seven million sterling. Under this system, after sixteen years' progress in every other branch of business throughout the Kingdom, we find the Bank with £14,850,000 in Bullion, the same fourteen millions sterling in Government Securities in its Issue Department, and an active Circulation of £21,845,000. The reserve of Notes Unemployed is reduced to £6,841,-000, which sum, with the present volume and wants of trade, is scarcely equal to four millions in 1844. This reserve ran down £1,240,000 the week ending 4th April, and would be further reduced by the payment of dividends the succeeding week ending 11th April. This further reduction was probably known exactly to the Court of Directors on Thursday, 12th, though not to be published in the Gazette until Friday afternoon, 13th. And hence the additional rise in the rate of interest. The business reader will understand that the reserve of Bank Notes is the real measure of the ability of the Bank to extend its accommodations. Its Banking Department holds but a trifling amount of Bullion, say half a million sterling. The other Bullion, with the £14,000,000 Government Stock, is in pledge to the Issue Department. It cannot be drawn out, except on the return, for cancelation, of a corresponding amount of Notes. If the public already hold three-fourths of these Notes, and a demand comes upon the Bank for Bullion for the Continent or for Notes to supply the increasing wants of the public, the reserve necessarily runs down until checked by the rise of interest, and if one or two turns of the screw will not serve, and no new supplies of Bullion come in to replenish the Issue Department, the process must go on; not because the credit of the Bank to issue Notes is exhausted; not because the Bank is unable to deposit double the security in Government Stock in the Department, but simply because the whole process has been limited to £14,000,000 in Stock and the Bullion on hand.

The Notes of the Bank of England are a legal tender—the only legal alternative, as a Currency, for Gold and Silver. In this view, it is plain to be seen that the restriction of this Currency to twenty-eight millions sterling in 1844 was a very different question to the same restriction practically, in 1860. The manufacturing industry of the Kingdom, alone, now demends employment for more than double the amount of Currency that served it sixteen years ago. The surplus product of this branch of labor, exported from the Kingdom, is in the proportion of one hundred and forty millions sterling in 1860, (say seven hundred million dollars,) to fifty millions sterling in 1844, (or two hundred and fifty million dollars;) and the raw material of Cotton wool alone consumed in 1860 is 2,523,000 bales, to 1,428,000 bales, in 1844. The exact figures of the exports of the United Kingdom are, in 1844, £50,648,306 and in 1859, £130,440,471, and the estimate for 1860 £140,000,-000 at least. The exact consumption of raw Cotton in 1844 was 1,428,600 bales, and 2,294,310 in 1859, and the estimated increase 10 per cent. for 1860 making 2,523,741 bales.

In our own market for Money and Exchange the effect of the news thus far is confined to the latter, the advance on London to 109¼, and Paris 15.16¼, being fairly established on a fair business for the Persia's mail to-morrow. Drawers on London have accepted 109¼@110 for sight bills, in place of 109¼ at 60 days' sight, with a view to cover with Bullien. The shipment by the Persia amounts, this afternoon, to $770,991. The mail closes at 8½ o'clock in the morning. The supply of Exchange from the South, this week, is on the basis of another large export of Cotton, 131,000 bales, the equivalent of $6,500,000, and from New-York the export movement of Produce is reported $1,536,000. At the close of 'Change hour several of the Bankers announced their rate on London for the next mail to be 109¼. Discounts have been done, to-day, as cheap as at any time during the season. There is a demand for prime paper from the New-England Banks, and considerable lines of October bills have been taken to-day, at 5½ ℔ cent. The Banks here are disposed to move with caution since the English news, and there is less eagerness for long date paper at 6 ℔ cent., while temporary Loans are offered with freedom, at 5 ℔ cent. The same rate is accepted on very select 30@60 day bills.

There is a further reaction in the Stock market to-day, not so much really on the English Money news of yesterday as on the calculation made by speculators for the decline, that high tide was reached, for the present, at the close of last week, and that prices must fall off 2@3 ℔ cent. to attract a substantial new movement. The basis for the decline being thus wholly speculative, without reference to the Money market, the actual transactions or printed sales to-day bear only a moderate comparison with the enormous lists of Thursday and Friday last. The buyers for the Bull account seem disposed to hold off, waiting for the lowest tide to go in again, (thus indirectly encouraging the fall,) while the sellers for the Bear account take courage from the complexion of the Foreign financial accounts and the resumption of the Specie export. The observation of the past few years is that upon the shipments of Specie through the Spring and Summer months, less Money is made by selling stocks short than is saved by a more rational view of the legitimate and seasonable movements of this branch of our Foreign business. That Specie will go forward this season on a fair, though not extravagant scale, is not more certain than that it ought to go in order to equalize the markets for Money between England and the United States, and to place the surplus Summer receipts from California and the interior where they will do the most good for the commerce of the world, and the price of our other great staple of Cotton.

The Share list was at one time ¼@½ ℔ cent. below the closing sales of Monday; New-York Central was done as low as 78½ ℔ cent., and most of the Western list, and Reading, Harlem and Hudson River in like proportion. But, after the printed sales at the Second Board, buyers took hold with more firmness, and a recovery of full ½ ℔ cent. was soon had; the general market finally closing unsettled. The whole decline from the extreme rates of last week is now equal to about 2 ℔ cent. on most of the speculative Shares, and ¾@1 ℔ cent. on State Stocks; while the Railway Mortgages and Federal Stocks continue firm, except for Erie Fourths and Fifths, which fell back from the top advance of last week. Pacific Mail and Panama shares showed more steadiness than others through the dealings of the day. The first-named is on the eve of the May Dividend, which is expected to be 10 ℔ cent., leaving, according to current rumor, a surplus of 15 ℔ cent after writing off $400,000 for depreciation on the steamship property. The range of prices at the close of business this afternoon is about as follows: New-York Central, 79 ℔ cent.; Reading, 42¼@½; Missouris, 84; Erie, 18; Harlem Preferred, 38@½; Michigan Central, 47½@48; Michigan Preferred, 24; Panama, 136½@137; Illinois Central, 60; Rock Island, 63¼@64; Galena, 63½@64, and Toledo, 29@½.

There is a demand for the new City Water Loan awarded on Saturday, and resales have been made to the extent of $70,000 at 103½@103¾ ℔ cent.

The Union Bank of this City has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 ℔ cent., payable on the 1st of May. The interest on the first mortgage bonds of the New-York and Erie Railroad, due on the 1st of May, will be paid on and after that day at the office of the Receiver.

A letter from London, received by the City of Baltimore to-day, remarks:

"A sum equal to $13,250,000, in 6 ℔ cent. debentures of the Colony of Victoria, was offered to-day for public tender. The price of the existing issue was yesterday 107¾, and the bids for the new supply this morning ranged between 105 and 108. The minimum at which the loan might be contracted, was contained in a sealed tender sent from the Colonial Government, and was found to be 105, but the offers at and above that price exceeded early by ten fifths of the total, and the remaining third will therefore have to be offered again."

The following is a comparative statement of the Exports (exclusive of Specie) from New-York to foreign ports for the week and since Jan. 1:

The New-Orleans Picayune, of the 19th, received to-day, per Adams' Express, says;

"Exchange continues languid, and operations are restricted in both Foreign and Domestic. Offerings of Sterling were very light this morning, but they proved ample for the demand, which was quite limited throughout. It is known, however, that there is a large amount still on hand, which parties are holding for a rise. The movement in other descriptions disclosed no improvement of any kind, except, perhaps, that Domestic Sight was a shade stiffer, and the market closed quiet at the subjoined quotations: Clear Sterling Bills, 107¾@108¼ and 108¼. Bills, with Shipping Documents attached, 107@107¼, and 107⅜. Francs, 5.18¾@5.23¾ ℔ dollar. Sixty-day Bills on New-York, &c., 1¼@1½ and 1¾ ℔ cent. discount.
